NEW HOPE FOR 'LOVE WIFE'

Mrs. Rogers Cheered by Prospect of Case Going to Jury Tomorrow; Tell Her Kindness to Children

By International News Service.

New York, April 25.—Testimony that Mrs. Ida Sniffen-Walters-Rogers showed loving solicitude for her two children, whom she is accused of murdering with bichloride of mercury, was introduced by the defence at the opening of the second day of the trial.

Former neighbors of Mrs. Rogers swore they had never seen her give either than tender care to the little victims, John, aged two and a half years, and Lorida, aged eight months.

This testimony was intended to prove that Mrs. Rogers was not responsible when she administered poison to the children.

MORE CONFIDENT.

The defendant appeared more confident and cheerful, being buoyed up by the hope that the case probably would be in the hands of the jury by tomorrow.

Opening for the defence, Mr. Chanler said:

"We will show that Mrs. Rogers was known in the neighborhood in which she lived for her extraordinary and remarkable devotion to her son, John, and her little daughter, Lorida. No woman ever loved her children more devotedly and was more wrapped up in her offsprings' lives than was Mrs. Rogers. The defendant loved her babies so much that she would not even let another woman wash the clothes that went next to the babies' skin. She insisted on doing that herself.

"TEMPORARILY INSANE."

"We will also prove that Mrs. Rogers, like many other women who shortly expect to become mothers, was temporarily insane. This mental condition was brought about by her physical state. We will show you, gentlemen, that when Mrs. Rogers gave her little ones poison she was not the real Mrs. Rogers at all."

Dr. William Wachsein of Lebannon Hospital, was the next witness sworn. He testified his treatment of Mrs. Rogers proved that she had taken bichloride of mercury.

Mrs. Rogers said she hoped for a short trial. She expressed the hope that she could soon go back to her husband and their baby.

All concerned in the defence of Mrs. Rogers expressed confidence in the outcome of the trial. Just before he took his place at his wife's side in the crowded court room, Rogers said:

"There is no doubt in my mind. There can be only one outcome—acquittal. That is all that I can say at present."

Woman Charges 'Twilight Sleep' Killed Her Baby

Dr. George L. Howland of No. 335 Centre street, Jamaica Plain, has been sued for $10,000 by Mrs. Eliza J. Hamilton for alleged negligence and carelessness in assisting her at the birth of a child in December, 1914. She claims he gave her "twilight sleep" with the result the child was born dead.

She asks the doctor to say whether the drugs used were the same as those administered in the "twilight sleep" method of assisting confinement cases.

In answer to her interrogatories, Dr. Howland says that he talked with the husband of the plaintiff and told him he was using some of the same medicine that was used to produce a condition sometimes called "twilight sleep," but only in quantities to make her comfortable.

He further says: "I use morphine-scopolamine in nearly all my cases to some extent. I have brought about a condition sometimes called 'twilight sleep' in three cases."

TWO MUST RESTORE THEATRE THEFTS

Ward F. Tucker of Dale street, Roxbury, formerly special office at the Eagle Theatre, Roxbury, was found guilty by Judge Hayden in the Roxbury Court today of the larceny of $200 from the Eagle Theatre management. He was placed on probation with the understanding that he make restitution, Elmer Hoffmeyer, the cashier at the same show house, whose case was thought settled last week, was arraigned again today and an additional $125 larceny charge placed against her. She was also ordered to make restitution.

BOSTON & MAINE PETITION DENIED

Washington, April 25.—The Interstate Commerce Commission today denied the petition of the Boston & Maine Railroad asking that the complaint of C. S. Emery & Co., customs brokers of Newport, Vt., against the customs house broker employed by the railroad at Newport, be dismissed for want of jurisdiction. The case now will be heard on the question of whether the Boston & Maine unfairly favored its own broker to the prejudice of others.

Submarine Crisis Encouraging; U. S. Officials Say; Expect to Get Berlin Answer Next Week

By International News Service.

Berlin, April 25.—The International News Service is permitted to state that the German foreign office is exceedingly hopeful of averting a break between Germany and the United States over the submarine issue.

Work on the preliminary draft of a reply to the recent American note was begun this morning after a conference between Chancellor von Bethmann-Hollweg and Foreign Minister von Jagow. When completed it will be submitted to the chancellor for his approval and then be transmitted to Emperor William at army headquarters.

It is hoped at the Foreign Office that the reply may be started to America Thursday evening or within twenty-four hours of that time at the very latest. Ambassador Gerard declined today to make any comment on the situation, but the optimism at the Imperial Foreign Office was reflected at the American embassy.

Report Germany Has Yielded All

Washington, April 25.—There is great interest here in the dispatch printed in the Providence Journal from a staff correspondent, saying Germany yields every point in the submarine controversy with the United States, and that Von Bernstorff announced at a private dinner that the crisis was over.

Count von Bernstorff is exerting every effort to bring the United States and Germany to an agreement that will avert a severance of diplomatic relations over the submarine controversy.

This fact, coupled with encouraging advices from Ambassador Gerard at Berlin, gave a still more favorable aspect to the German situation.

Secretary Lansing said that the situation was on an "even keel." Other high American officials described it as "more hopeful than hopeless."

Ambassador von Bernstorff, is understood to have sent a message to his government urging that a reply to the American communication be delayed until the receipt of a long dispatch he was preparing. It is believed this dispatch has gone forward to Berlin.

In this communication, the Ambas-

TROOPS DRIVE BANDIT FROM VILLA

Bandit Is Reported 60 Miles From Satevo; Pershing Believed to Have Resumed Pursuit

By International News Service.

Washington, April 25.—Official dispatches to the State Department today indicated that the American forces in Mexico again have picked up the trail of Villa.

The bandit leader was reported to be only sixty miles southwest of Satevo, where there are some American forces. Officials of both the State and War departments admitted that it was probable General Pershing already had sent a force to resume the pursuit.

Secretary of War Baker today received a dispatch from General Funston announcing that the Seventeenth Infantry, less the second battalion, had crossed the border at Columbus, N. M., and would be used in strengthening General Pershing's line of communications. General Funston reported that most of the cavalry horses were overworked.

From all parts of Mexico today came disquieting reports indicating the danger of the Carranza government collapsing. These reports came from State Department agents and consular officials, and because of the general pessimism of their tone their contents were withheld.

Conditions in Mexico City are admittedly bad, officials making no secret of the food shortage there, which has led already to bread riots. The growing jealousy between Carranza and his high chieftains, notably General Obregon, Minister of War, has tended to destroy the confidence of the populace in the de facto government.

A report from El Paso says that Villistas under General Banuelos have defeated a Carranza force and have encamped eighteen miles from Zacatecas. The Carranza garrison there has requested reinforcements from Aguas Calientes.

The reports received concerning conditions in Mexico City are par-

British Spying for German Dash From U.S. Fire at American Liner

By International News Service.

Havana, April 25.—The Australian cruiser Sydney fired a shot across the bow of the Morgan liner Chalmette following the refusal of the American vessel to obey a wireless order to stop, according to word brought here.

The Chalmette's captain brought his ship to a stop following the shot, and a boarding officer allowed the vessel to proceed after examining her papers.

He explained that British warships were closely watching American ports owing to the belief that in view of the strained relations between the United States and Germany, German ships interned in United States ports might try to dash to sea.

Mobile, Ala., April 25.—A British cruiser halted the American schooner Flora A. Kimball at the bar of Mobile Bay, and later, disguised as a passenger steamer vessel, overhauled the British steamer Long Star, holding her until satisfied of her identity.

Pilots up from the gulf say that the cruiser came alongside their vessel Saturday and that the decks were cleared for action.

Turks Stiffen Resistance in the Caucasus

Petrograd, April 25—Russian troops advancing westward from Erzerum toward Erzingam, a strong Turkish fortress, are now meeting with sharp resistance, according to advices received today from Tiflis.

The Ottoman forces in this region have been heavily increased during the past week.

The arriving troops include large German contingents. Pending the result of the conflicts now being fought between Erzerum and Erzingan, the Russian advance westward along the Black sea coast from Trapezond has been halted.

To insure complete success in the operations in Asia Minor, it is necessary that the entire Russian line, which extends from Trebizond to the vicinity of Hitlis, a distance of 240 miles, must advance without permitting the Turks an opportunity of flanking operations.

A premature advance from Trebizond might prove disastrous to the plans which have been made by Grand Duke Nicholas.

SHIPS NEAR CRASH OUTSIDE CAPE COD

The British steamship Zoroaster, which has made port from Malta, missed by thirty-five feet being cut down off Nantucket lightship by a big Atlantic Transport liner late Saturday.

When the freighter reached the harbor, Captain Hartley was a happy man, for he said he had not had his clothes off in more than a week because of fog.

Latest War Bulletins

London, April 25.—The Turkish camp at Gettajia, Egypt, which was captured from the English last Saturday, has been destroyed by the British with heavy loss to the enemy, it was announced by the War Office.

Paris, April 25.—Another contingent of Russian troops is landing at Marseilles today, according to an official statement issued here.

REBELS SEIZE PART OF CITY; 12 KILLED

Successive war dispatches today revealed a combined air and sea attack upon England by German forces, both time to strike coincident with a revolt in Ireland against British rule.

At last accounts the Irish revolt, fast assuming the proportions of a revolution, was the most serious danger England faced in this varied assault.

The "rebels," as they are styled by Augustine Birrell, Secretary for Ireland, are in possession of four or five districts of Dublin. Telegraphic communication between Dublin and London has been cut off. Five soldiers have been shot to death. Many arrests have been made.

REBELS HOLD DUBLIN DISTRICTS.

In all twelve lives were lost in rioting in Dublin yesterday.

Secretary Birrell says that there was evidently a plot to seize the city of Dublin, but that the miliary authorities managed to frustrate it.

But later London dispatches said that the situation was regarded as extremely serious. The trouble would hardly be exaggerated by Secretary Birrell in his official statement. Rather he would minimize it. Hence the gravity of his last statement, as follows:

"Four or five districts of Dublin were in possession of the rebels at last reports."

The first dispatches on the Irish revolt said that Secretary Birrell announced to the House of Commons that political rioters in Dublin took possession of the postoffice yesterday. They were well armed. They defied the police to dislodge them. Troops were rushed to the city from the Curragh barracks. The troops took possession and, the Secretary announced, the situation was well in hand.

But later dispatches quoted the Irish Secretary as saying that telegraphic communication with Dublin had been cut off and the situation was regarded as extremely serious.

SEE ECHO OF CASEMENT PLOT.

The Dublin riot, the concerted effort of the rioters, and their possession of arms are believed to have close relations to the plan of Sir Roger Casement to land arms and ammunition on the Irish coast, a plan which was frustrated by the capture of Sir Roger off the Irish coast on the night of April 20 and the sinking of the German vessel which bore him and his party.

Sir Roger was brought to London to be tried for treason. The arms and ammunition were lost to whatever party they were intended.

Lord Wilbourne succeeded Lord Aberdeen as Governor-General of Ireland a year ago this month. When the new Governor-General, who is also the Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, reached Dublin he was given a reception which apparently showed that the choice was a popular one, but since that time political feeling in southern Ireland has risen to a very high pitch.

The hopes of Sir Roger Casement have been well known to the government, which was also on constant watch for acute political troubles in Ireland.

FLEETS BATTLE IN NORTH SEA

By SYNEY S. CAVE.
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

London, April 25.—A German naval squadron was defeated by a British squadron in the North Sea today. An official statement issued by the Admiralty stated that the German warships were in flight, being pursued by the British men of war. The squadrons consisted of battle cruisers, light cruisers and destroyers.

The battle was fought so close to the shore that persons could hear the roar of the guns and see the shells dropping into the sea.

Firing was first heard about 4 o'clock. The German ships had been able to penetrate the British patrol lines in the darkness, and naval officers were not certain whether the Germans had come out to give battle or to bombard the English coast.

Previous to the engagement the Germans shelled Lowestoft, killing four persons.

That last night's Zeppelin raid was much more extensive than first reported and that four or five air craft took part instead of three is shown by the following official statement issued by the Admiralty this afternoon:

"An air raid was made over the coasts of Norfolk and Suffolk counties last night by four or five Zeppelins, but only two of them tried to penetrate inland to any great extent. About seventy bombs were dropped. It is known that one man was seriously wounded, but further casualties were unavailable at the time this statement was issued."

The damage done to property, however, was slight. From the Admiralty announcement the presence of the German warships in English waters was not known until they were within range of shore. Through the darkness the raiders made their way to the Suffolk coast and then opened fire. The fact that two of the Zeppelins which raided the east coast last night passed over Norfolk County, not far from that section of Suffolk which

BRITISH MAY SHOOT KNIGHT AS TRAITOR

The capture of Sir Roger on the 20th was not given out by the government until early today. It is believed that the raid on the Suffolk and Norfolk coast by a German sea squadron and the air raid over the eastern counties by a fleet of Zeppelins were supposed, in Berlin, to be delivered when the Irish revolt was ripe.

Predict Firing Squad For Casement

The British government has exhibited a keen desire to get hold of Sir Roger Casement ever since he began his activities as a friend of Germany in the present war.

It has been freely predicted that if the impulsive knight ever should fall into British hands he would end his days in front of a firing squad in the tower of London.

That probability is obviously much strengthened by the circumstances of his capture in the very act of leading a German filibustering expedition to the coast of Ireland.

Sir Roger Casement spent the best years of his life in the British consular service. It was in recognition of important work well performed that he received his knighthood of the Order of St. Michael and St. George.

Much of his life was spent in tropical countries. Many who knew him before the war believe, with Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, that the tropics undermined his health and his mental stability to an extent that explains his actions under the stress of the excitement of the past two years.

But Sir Roger had taken an anti-English stand on the Irish question before the war broke out. Although an Ulster Protestant, he had thrown himself into the Nationalist movement at the head of the Irish Volunteers.

CAME TO AMERICA.

In an effort to obtain arms and money for that organization he came to this country in 1914. He was here during the first clash of war, and even then expressed strong pro-German sympathies and anxiety that England should remain neutral. When England plunged into the war his sympathy with her chief enemy found expression in action.

Germany was looking for Irish sympathizers. It offered a welcome to Sir Roger, whose title, official career and presumed influence with his countrymen made him seem a valuable instrument for the execution of German plans. For Berlin, accordingly, Sir Roger steered his course.

It was a roundabout course, the seas being in possession of the British, and it led him to Norway. Although he was traveling incognito, his presence became known to the British Minister. The adventures which followed, according to a florid narrative afterward disseminated by Sir Roger, under the auspices of the German government, were worthy of a place in the pages of romantic fiction.

BRITISH OFFER REWARD.

The British Minister got hold of Casement's Norwegian valet, according to this story, and tried to bribe him to lure the Irish knight to some place on the coast where he might be kidnaped by the British navy.

Failing in this, the valet was to assassinate him or do away with him in any manner. There was a reward of $25,000 offered for him.

Sir Roger circulated in all countries fac-simile copies of a document that purported to be the Minister's written guarantee to the valet on note paper of the British legation at Christiania.

Escaping from this diabolical trap, thanks to the fidelity of his valet, Sir Roger succeeded in reaching Berlin, where he has been treated ever since as a guest, but one from whom important things were expected.

First, Sir Roger was called upon to do some work with Irish soldiers who had been taken prisoners by the Germans. A first-hand narrative of one such attempt was afterward given by Private William Dooley of the Royal Irish Regiment.

MAKES ADDRESS TO PRISONERS.

Dooley related that Irish prisoners were collected together from all over Germany, until he formed a body of 2,000. These were treated with plenty of food and soft words until they were considered ripe for the persuasions of Sir Roger.

On an appointed day Casement was introduced. He mounted a box and made an anti-English speech. He told the prisoners that Germany was the devoted friend of Ireland, and would never treat Ireland as she had treated Belgium, but would exalt the Irish into self-governing people who could defy their ancestral tyrants, the English.

In conclusion he invited them to enlist in a German-Irish brigade. They were to receive $50 apiece, go to the front and fight against their former comrades of the British army, and afterwards take posts of honor in a German invasion of Ireland.

That was to be in the event of German success in the war.

In the event of German failure, they were to receive free passage to America.

SIR ROGER IS JEERED.

According to Private Dooley, the prisoners listened patiently to Sir Roger until he had finished, and then broke forth into Irish objurgations which overwhelmed him with embarrassment. After that the Irish prisoners were given a radical change of treatment, several of them died and forty others, to obtain better food, joined the German-Irish brigade.

It was related in a dispatch from Berlin last year that the German government had paid Sir Roger a retaining fee of $12,000, and that it was impatient for him to deliver something worth while in the way of a quid pro quo.

One thing that he had undertaken to deliver was an Irish revolt, in consideration of which he was to receive much larger emoluments. Doubtless the attempted expedition in which he has been captured represented the Irish knight's last efforts to fulfill these high expectations.

In February last year Sir Edward Grey announced that Casement's consular pension had been suspended. Sir Roger retorted by returning to Sir Edward his insignia of the Order of St. Michael and St. George, his coronation medal of George V., and all his other decorations.

WANTED U. S. IN ALLIANCE.

The German foreign office has circulated a pamphlet by Sir Roger entitled "The Crime Against Ireland, and How the War May Right It. A passage from it reads:

> The true alliance to aim at for all who love peace is the friendly union of Germany, America and Ireland. There are the true United States of the world. Ireland's world. Ireland, the land between Germany and America, must be freed by both.

Photographs of money Sir Roger Casement claimed the British minister in Norway had given his valet in part payment of an agreement for Casement's capture.

Serious Revolution in Ireland, Report

By International News Service.

New York, April 25.—Reports of a serious revolutionary outbreak in Ireland caused excitement in Irish circles here. First rumors of the revolution were circulated in Wall Street. The reports, taken in connection with the announcement of the capture of Sir Roger Casement, the Irish leader, with a German filibustering expedition, were widely accepted here as true.

It was rumored that sympathizers in this country are lending aid to the Irish revolutionists.

Two apparently innocent cablegrams, but which were in reality cipher-messages, brought first news of the revolution. News of their receipt leaked out despite efforts to keep the matter secret.

The revolution, according to reports, has met with considerable success. In Irish circles it was said the same censorship which has kept secret for three days the news of the capture of Sir Roger Casement, has until now effectually clamped the lid on news from Ireland.

SEIZE MUNITIONS FROM U. S.

Among other reports it was said Irish sympathizers of the Kaiser have been supplying German submarines with fuel and other materials from an island off the Irish coast.

Recent issues of the Weekly Irish Times, published in Dublin, stated that quantities of new single-barrel, breech-loading shotguns, stamped "U. S. A." and packed in cases, along with 110 rounds of ammunition for magazine rifles and a number of bayonets, had been seized there under the defence of the realm act.

Whether local Irishmen have been connected with the revolution, could not be learned definitely. But it is certain they were expecting it.

Although four newspapers in Ireland friendly to the Irish Volunteers have been suppressed, others are filled with news of uprisings.

JUSTICE IS QUOTED.

Under the heading, "Sedition in Dublin—Interference with Recruiting—All Authority Set at Defiance," the Irish Times of April 15 quotes Justice Kenny of Dublin in part, as follows:

> We read in our daily papers of anti-recruiting meetings, of the seizure of seditious literature, of the police in the execution of their right of search being met and repulsed by men armed with rifle and bayonet, of street disturbances in which firearms appear to be freely used.

Editorially, the Times declares Justice Kenney did a service in speaking openly, and added that "they (the revolutionists) maintain a sinister traffic in firearms and ammunition."

Says Casement Tried To Recruit Irish

London, April 25. — The following written statement by a British prisoner in Germany was given out here as bearing on Sir Roger Casement's activities in Germany:

> On the seventh of December all the non-commissioned officers were paraded in the barrack room. A tall gentleman, accompanied by a staff of German officers, entered and spoke to us. He said, "I am now here for the purpose of forming an Irish brigade of the prisoners of war here."
>
> We were naturally dumbfounded. I was the youngest non-commissioned officer there and some days afterward I was sent for from his hotel at Limburg. He gave me a book and told me to enter up the names of Irishmen in the camp.
>
> Mass was to be said the next morning and all the men had gathered in the room when our noble friend made his appearance and said it would be a good opportunity to speak to the men. Our fellows were very angry at being fooled. He attacked our government and heaped abuse on England and all Englishmen.
>
> Our fellows got raging, and cries of "Chuck him out" were heard. So after a few more remarks he went out.
>
> Casement paid some more visits to us and I was taken to his hotel and once more met him. He at once began to talk about the Irish brigade, and asked me if there was any hope of its materialization. I replied, "Surely you don't expect the men who fight for the British flag to betray their country?"
>
> He said they were unworthy of the names of Irishmen. He then showed me a uniform with green facings and collar badges of the harp, which was to be worn by the brigade. He asked me if I were willing to become a recruiting sergeant, and I said decidedly no.

Irish Train Attacked, Rush Police Guards

By International News Service.

London, April 25.—A dispatch to the Star from a correspondent in Ireland states that an engine-load of police frustrated an attempt to wreck a train at Maryborough, Ireland.

The police were rushed to the scene after the railroad men had been fired upon. Maryborough is fifteen miles from Dublin in a southwesterly direction. It is the capital of Queen's County.

Secret Session on Conscription

By International News Service.

London, April 25.—Parliament went into secret session this afternoon for the first time since the war began. The motion for a secret session was carried in the House of Commons without a division.

The object of the deliberations in camera is to decide upon a definite policy as regards conscription. The opposition to extending conscription to all men of military age, (married and single) led the government to decide upon secret deliberations in order to avoid arousing factional feeling throughout the country.

The spectators' galleries were filled to overflowing, but when the motion for a secret session was carried Premier Asquith ordered all those who were not entitled to be present to withdraw.

Among the first questions put to the Premier when Comomns convened was whether Sir Roger Casement would be shot forwith for treason.

"That question should not be asked," replied the Premier.

was shelled, led to a theory that the squadron had been guided across the North Sea by the balloons.

This was the second time since the war started that German warships have been able to get within gun range of the English coast. In December, 1914, Scarborough was shelled by a flotilla.

It is believed that some, if not all, the German men-of-war that took part in the sea fight came from Zeebrugge, the German naval base on the Belgian coast.

Just before the Admiralty issued its official statement on the naval battle a press dispatch had been received from Amsterdam, stating that British warships which were patrolling the Belgian coast off Zeebrugge came upon three German destroyers. The English men-of-war opened fire, some of the projectiles taking effect.

Following is the text of the Admiralty statement:

"At 4:30 this morning a German battle cruiser squadron, accompanied by light cruisers and destroyers appeared off Lowestoft.

"Local naval forces engaged the enemy and twenty minutes later the Germans returned to Germany, chased by light cruisers.

"On shore two men, one woman and a child were killed. The material damage was insignificant.

"Two British cruisers and one destroyer were hit, but none was sunk."

SAW 200 JAPANESE TROOPS IN FRANCE

New York, April 25.—Fred Cozzens, an importer of this city, asserted on his arrival here on the French Line steamship Rochambeau that he had witnessed the entraining at Marseilles two weeks ago of a force of Japanese soldiers, 200 strong. He said he was positive the troops wore Japanese uniforms, but had no knowledge as to whether they were a part of a stronger force.

It was at Marseilles that Russian troops landed last Thursday.

Prisoner Is Questioned on Arnold Story

Providence, R. I., April 25.—Lieutenant Grant Williams of the New York police, in charge of the search being made for the body of Dorothy Arnold, today paid a second visit to Octave Charles Genoures in his cell at the Rhode Island State Prison, where he conferred with the prisoner for over two hours.

Much mystery surrounds this last visit. Lieutenant Williams refused to make any statement as to the nature of the conference. It was learned from officials, however, that the visit was for the purpose of obtaining more detail as to the location of the house where the body is supposed to lie.

Lieutenant Williams was asked if he came for the purpose of making arrangements, if possible, to take Genoures to New York to assist in the search. The police official smiled and said: "I can't answer that question."

It was learned that Genoures pleaded with Williams to let him go to New York and help the officials. He states that he can go directly to the house and stand on the spot where the body was buried.

ALLIES PRESENT BLOCKADE DEFENCE

Washington, April 25.—Sir Cecil Spring-Rice, the British Ambassador, has presented the State Department with the French and British defences of the blockade of Germany. The evidence is presented in an attempt to prove that many of the shipments made from the United States to the neutral countries were destined for the enemies of the Allies.

GERMANY CLOSES SWISS FRONTIER

Berne, via Paris, April 25.—The Swiss-German frontier has again been closed because of military movements in Alsace.

The authorities have expelled eleven German, Austrian and Bulgar provision dealers because of usury in the sale of victuals.

WASHBURN TAKES NO PART IN CONTEST

Worcester, April 25.—State Senator Robert M. Washburn, one of the candidates for Republican delegates-at-large on the Roosevelt ticket, took no part in the primaries today. He is in Baltimore, where he has been for six weeks, trying to regain his health.

COMPLETE JURY IN JUNKMAN'S DEATH CASE

The jury that will decide the fate of Frank J. Tracey and Joseph (alias Delevan) Rogers, charged with first degree murder in killing Samuel W. Cohen, a junkman, was completed shortly after the opening of the Superior Criminal Court today.

Clerk Manning read the indictment, and Judge Hardy appointed Louis C. Campbell, No. 2 Winter street, Dorchester, foreman. The list of jurors is as follows:

No. 1—William Healy, leather handler, No. 30 Wesley avenue, Dorchester.

No. 2—Michael Rinn, shipper, No. 61 Auburn street, West Roxbury.

No. 3—William J. O'Brien, blacksmith, No. 374 Athens street, South Boston.

No. 4—John J. Halligan, janitor, No. 10 Allen street, West End.

No. 5—John J. Curley, florist, No. 49 Juniper street, Roxbury.

No. 6—Ernest A. Reddy, provision dealer, No. 57 Decatur street, Charlestown.

No. 7—William J. Connaughton, shipper, No. 14 Maryland street, Dorchester.

No. 8.—John J. Driscoll, wood turner, No. 20 St. Margaret street, Dorchester.

No. 9—Charles E. Colby, printer, No. 9 Neponset avenue, Dorchester.

No. 10—Louis C. Campbell, contractor, No. 2 Winter street, Dorchester.

No. 11—Herbert W. Towle, foreman, No. 85 Elm street, Charlestown.

No. 12—Joseph A. Dwyer, salesman, No. 29 Fairview street, Dorchester.

Dwyer was the third talesman examined today, and the 148th since the opening of the trial yesterday. Dwyer asked to be excused because of business reasons, but as he had no opinions or prejudices against the death penalty the court refused to excuse him.

The jury visited the scene of the crime in West Springfield street, returning to the courthouse at 3 o'clock.

SEE SLUSH FUND AT POLLS

That a big "slush fund" had been turned over to Boston Democratic politicians to secure support for one or more of the Weeks-Crane-Lodge-McCall ticket in today's presidential primaries was the assertion of political observers today.

These reports seemed to have confirmation in conditions that attended the balloting.

While the vote in general was very light, not more than 50 per cent. of the normal at noon, there was great activity in some Democratic districts.

Democrats were seen in the vicinity of polling booths openly wearing Republican buttons, and it was freely stated that they were voting Republican split tickets.

VOTE SPLIT TICKET

In Ward 17 it was said that the Democrats were voting split tickets, the favorite slate being Senators Weeks and Lodge, Charles Sumner Bird and State Senator Washburn. Less than 400 had voted in the ward up to noon.

In Precinct 8, the largest in the ward, only 55 had voted up to 10 o'clock, whereas the usual vote is 800. At Precinct 4, Vine street, conditions were practically the same.

In Charlestown, Ward 3, Precinct 5, but 31 votes were cast up to 10:30, in contrast to the usual vote of about 350. The normal Republican vote in this district is about 800, but today's total will not be greater than 300, according to leaders.

G. O. P. ACTIVE.

Out in Ward 21 the Republicans were showing signs of activity in getting out the vote. There is a big Roosevelt following in this ward. Several Republican leaders wagered small bets that there would be an even break in the election of Roosevelt delegates. It was figured that Senator Lodge would win a place in the ward on the unpledged delegation.

The colored voters in Ward 18, mostly Republicans, voted in large numbers there during the morning hours. This is "Diamond Jim" Timilty's ward, and many of his followers, it is claimed, cast their ballots for the unpledged delegation.

In Ward 9 barely a handful of votes were cast up to the noon hour. Twenty-four votes were cast at 11:05 a. m. in Precinct 4 of that ward. City Clerk Donovan votes in this precinct.

ONE FIFTH NORMAL VOTE

In precinct 1, ward 24, only 50 votes had been cast up to noon, and it was expected that the total vote for the ward would not exceed 1500, about one-fifth of normal. Ward 20 showed an equally light vote, only 1200 having been cast up to noon. Democrats were seen about the voting booths wearing Republican buttons, and it was declared that they were voting Republican tickets. From what could be learned, however, there was no organized voting, the Old Guard Big Four ticket being split up and the different combinations receiving votes.

John W. Weeks, W. Murray Crane, Henry Cabot Lodge and Governor Samuel W. McCall constitute the "Old Guard Big Four." They call themselves the "unpledged" delegates.

Senator Weeks is a candidate for President. A presidential suite was reserved for him in one of the big Chicago hotels by Louis A. Coolidge of Boston. Mr. Coolidge is treasurer of the United Shoe Machinery Company, the big corporation that is behind Senator Weeks' presidential candidacy.

Congressman Augustus P. Gardner, Grafton D. Cushing, Charles Sumner Bird and State Senator Robert M. Washburn are the "Big Four" candidates pledged to support Theodore Roosevelt if they are elected delegates to the Chicago convention.

FEW DEMOCRATIC CONTESTS.

The campaign managers were speculating on the size of the vote. Charles S. Baxter of the Old Guard thought the Republican vote would total possibly 110,000, which is about 15,000 less than the gubernatorial primaries last Fall and some 50,000 less than the presidential primaries four years ago.

Campaign Manager W. W. Lufkin of the Young Guard thought the Republican vote might reach 100,000.

Contests were few and far between in the Democratic ranks. Former Governor Walsh, Joseph H. O'Neil, Humphrey O'Sullivan and Charles B. Strecker make up the Democratic Big Four who will go to St. Louis pledged to support Woodrow Wilson, regardless of the one-term plank of the Baltimore convention.

Because of the few contests, the practical ward bosses in Boston, at least, felt free to flirt with the practical machine leaders of the G. O. P.

In the Tenth Congressional District Martin M. Lomasney and former State Senator William Taylor are opposed by John H. Farley, Thomas J. Giblin and Thomas J. Niland. Politicians were predicting the election of Messrs. Lomasney and Taylor.

The Eleventh District also provides a Democratic free-for-all. The candidates, of whom two will be elected, are John T. Kennedy, Patrick J. Brady, Francis J. Finneran, Andrew J. Lacey and James McInerny.

The Republicans entered their caucus primary fight under much-muddled conditions and very bitter feelings.

Reports were rife that "knifing" was to be done for each of the four delegates-at-large.

Berkshire County was prepared to vote "bullets" for former Senator Crane, according to the reports, while in the eastern section of the State every effort was being made to have Senator Weeks lead the ticket.

LODGE MEN RESENTFUL.

Essex County voters who heard of the situation had decided to cast "bullets" for Senator Lodge, the reports have it.

It seemed from the reports that Governor McCall, who alone has made the fight for the Big Four, was destined to suffer in the "knifing" program.

On the other hand, later reports were to the effect that many thousands of loyal Republicans, angered by this alleged treachery, would give vent to their feeling by voting for Governor McCall alone.

Internal dissension in the Republican party has also resulted, according to the report, from the long-standing jealousy of Senator Weeks for Governor McCall. The Senator's friends view in the Governor a stronger presidential possibility than Mr. Weeks. They are known to be incensed by Governor McCall's refusal to support the Weeks candidacy.

The wide range of influence commanded by the machine element in the party was due to assert itself in favor of the Old Guard. Advices received by the Roosevelt-for-President campaign managers indicated that the city and town and ward committees throughout the State would work at the polls to secure the election of the "Old Guard." Those reports disturbed the "Young Guard" because the various committees of the Republican party were expected to play perfectly neutral in a contest between two factions of the party.

In the Twelfth Congressional District was staged the only open fight between two groups of "unpledged" delegates. This district is marked by two groups of candidates. J. Waldo Pond and Walter B. Grant of Boston are said to be favorable to Governor McCall. William H. L. Odell and Walter V. Fletcher of Boston, the second group, are said to be supported by the Weeks henchmen. A victory in that district will be hailed as a good omen by the friends of either McCall or Weeks.

Widow's Heart Suit Adds to Tangle of Williams' Affairs

Miss Emma R. Wellington, defendant in $50,000 alienation suit by widow of George E. Williams, insurance man whose tangled affairs were revealed by his death.

Mrs. Sadie E. Williams, widow of George E. Williams, the insurance man whose death over a year ago revealed an amazing tangle in his affairs, has brought suit for $50,000, charging alienation of her husband's affections against Miss Emma R. Wellington of Milton, who was his secretary.

The name of Miss Wellington figured in the exposures of Williams' affairs after his death. It was found he had so juggled insurance policies that many persons who thought themselves insured found their policies were not worth the paper on which they were printed.

It was found that Williams had transferred a large part of his property to Miss Wellington.

Suits and cross suits followed, some being brought by persons who thought they were insured, some by Miss Wellington, and some by Mrs. Williams.

Several insurance policies are due on the life of Williams himself, and the courts are to determine to whom the amounts of these policies should be paid.

The action was taken, it is said, because the Board turned down one applicant in whom an Alderman was particularly interested.

HOLDS UP CLERK AND GETS $15

A lone gunman walked into the office of a lodging house at No. 17 Kneeland street, early today, pointed a revolver at the night clerk, Patrick J. Desmond, and said, "Here, I want you to come across with what money you've got in the place."

Desmond, prompted by the businesslike manner displayed by the other, opened the drawer of the desk and handed out $15.

Without further word the gunman thereupon backed out of the door, keeping the gun leveled at Desmond's head. At the door he stopped, cautioning the clerk not to make an outcry or he would shoot.

Then he calmly opened the door and went out. Desmond quickly notified the police of the La Grange street station and a squad of men were hurried to the scene. A search of the vicinity failed to locate the man.

According to the police, the gunman answers the descriptions of the one who yesterday held up James Farrell, night man in Rogers' Lunch Room, No. 1114 Washington street, and got away with $11.

He is described as between twenty and twenty-four, five [illegible] in height and dressed in black clothes. He is dark complexioned.

That he is an amateur is the belief of the police.

Desmond, the clerk, reported that in another part of the office he had secreted over $50. The fact that the gunman was satisfied with the $15 in the till leads the police to believe that he was afraid of being caught while at work.

The two clerks, Desmond and Farrell, have been asked to visit the Rogues Gallery at police headquarters today to try and identify the gun[illegible] by means of photographs.

Dr. White was professor emeritus of surgery at Pennsylvania and took an active interest in athletics. He was president of the athletic association.

MINE OPERATORS BALK AT UNION

New York, April 25.—A hitch has developed in the negotiations between a sub-committee of anthracite miners and operators over the question of recognition of the United Mine Workers of America. The session at the Union League Club was adjourned after efforts to reach an agreement had failed. It was said the operators were willing to grant the miners an eight-hour day and a substantial increase in wages but they refused to recognize the union. Another conference will be held this afternoon.

sador is said to have stated at length his negotiations with Secretary Lansing over the submarine issue, and to have impressed upon his government the earnestness of the United States in presenting its demands for abandonment of present methods of warfare.

Whether the exchanges between the Ambassador and his government will serve to delay receipt of the reply from Berlin, is not known. At any rate, it is insisted in diplomatic circles, that it is needless to expect a reply to reach Berlin before the last of next week.

One reason given for the delay is that not only must the Chancellor and Foreign Minister consult with the Kaiser, but the army must consult with her allies, before changing a war policy in the success of which all the Central Powers' allies are interested.

EXPECT AFFIRMATIVE REPLY.

The impression is generally held in official quarters that Germany will find no difficulty in making an affirmative reply on the main proposition of the American note. One exacting feature of the note is the demand that Germany shall declare and put into effect at once obligations to conduct submarine warfare according to international law and the humanities.

It goes without saying, officials believe, that Germany would not put herself on record as contradicting the American proposition that submarine warfare should be conducted with due regard to the humanities in dealing with crews and passengers of private vessels.

If Germany agrees to the basic proposition to suspend illegal methods, and does suspend them pending discussion, officials believe that the United States could not refuse to consider any counter suggestion. If, therefore, after the United States and Germany agree that submarines can legally proceed on the general principle of visit and search, the United States, it is believed, now have something to say as to the correlative duty and obligation of merchantmen.

U. S. HAS STATED ATTITUDE.

The attitude of this government has been declared four or five times in the case of armed Italian and French vessels coming to American ports. These ships were permitted to leave only after giving pledges that their guns would not be used against submarines while the latter were in the act of giving warning.

It is felt that when the German government realizes that the United States is not demanding the abandonment of all submarine warfare, but only illegal warfare, recognized as such by international law a basis of agreement will be reached.

While still hopeful of settlement of the issue, however, the administration is taking no chance of being caught napping as evidence of this was given when the leaves of absence of forty-three naval officers were recalled by direction of Secretary Daniels. At the same time instructions were given that no additional applications for leave are to be considered at this time. Leaves to army officers were cancelled last week.

OFFICERS READY FOR CALL.

All commissioned officers of both the army and navy are under orders to report to regiments or ships.

In addition, both War and Navy Departments are in touch with retired officers so that in case of need they may be called into active service immediately.

WAR SUMMARY

Big naval developments broke into the European war news suddenly today when noon cables flashed an official statement by the British Admiralty that a British naval squadron had defeated a German squadron in the North Sea. The German sea force, made up of battle cruisers, light cruisers and destroyers, penetrated the British coast patrol lines in the morning darkness until it was within range of the Suffolk shore. The Germans shelled Lowestoft, killing four persons. The British naval force engaged the enemy. Twenty minutes later, according to the Admiralty statement, the Kaiser's squadron was being chased back to Germany.

Another war feature of great interest was the announcement of the capture of Sir Roger Casement, the Irish knight, by the British while he was heading a German expedition to land arms and ammunition on the Irish coast. Sir Roger has been taken to London for a military trial on a charge of treason.

Domestic and foreign dispatches on the crisis between this country and Germany took a more hopeful trend today. The American Ambassador had a talk with the Imperial Chancellor in Berlin. The Chancellor, it is said, is to see the Kaiser again at field headquarters. The inference clutched from this by the news correspondents at Berlin is that the Chancellor gave Gerard an idea of the intended German reply, that Gerard said "It won't do," or words to that effect, and that the Chancellor is going to report back to the Kaiser. It is all guesswork, however. Washington dispatches describe Von Bernstorff as doing his diplomatic best to prevent a break. Lansing says the situation is "on an even keel."

A Paris communique today reported the repulse of three German attacks on French positions at Dead Man's Hill, northwest of Verdun and the checking of a Teuton assault on the Avocourt line. The German night report said that weak French advances east of Dead Man's Hill and northeast of Avocourt were repulsed and that a French movement in force near Thiaumont Farm broke down completely. Heavy artillery duels continue along the Western front.

'Avoid War,' Plea in Thousands of Wires

By International News Service

Washington, April 25.—The facilities of the telegraph companies were taxed today handling telegrams addressed to the White House and to members of Congress. These messages deal with the German submarine situation and the general tenor of them is a plea to the President and members of Congress to do everything possible to avoid war. It is understood that 15,000 night letters reached here last night over the Postal lines and some 60,000 via Western Union.

Senators Lewis and Sherman of Illinois and Representatives from that state got most of the messages. The common form of telegram read:

"Your constituents urge and expect you to stand like a rock against the passing frenzy of insane and criminal folly on the part of the small part of the interested persons who are clamoring for war. We want peace. Nothing warrants any other action.

Another form said:

"If warlike rumors coming from Washington are true will you let the reassure you that the great majority of your constituents stand for peace. Believe war too unnecessary and uncalled for and will resent any precipitation into the European conflict.

There was still another form along the same lines which was signed by "Wives and mothers."

Bernstorff Sees Settlement Hope

By International News Service.

New York, April 25.—Before leaving for Washington this afternoon, Count von Bernstorff, the German ambassador to the United States, received a number of newspaper men, but refused to make any statement.

Upon being asked whether a crisis exists in the relations between Germany and the United States, he replied:

"You will have to ask President Wilson or the Kaiser. They both much better information on the subject than I have."

The ambassador indicated he believed there is a chance for adjustment of the submarine controversy, but refused to say so.

Italians Make Gains in Trentino

By ANDRE BEAUMONT,

Special to London Daily Telegraph and International News Service.

Milan, April 25.—In the Trentino the Italians have now occupied San Osvaldo, on the right slopes of Val Sugana, within eleventy kilometres (twelve and a half miles) of Trentino.

As the San Osvaldo an athletic corporal distinguished himself in a hand-to-hand fight on the summit with four Austrians, two of whom he killed outright. The two others, after a fierce struggle he knocked down and made prisoners.

The position of San Osvaldo is important. It commands one of the eastern approaches to the Austrian fortifications on the summit of Mount Lagorita, one of the strongest forts in the Trentino.

Rome, April 25.—Despite unfavorable weather conditions, the Italian troops fighting in the mountains have conquered Sentinella Pass, in the ridge north of Sexton Valley, according to an official statement issued by the war office.

The communication says persistent bad weather has retarded activity. In the Upper Cordevole obstinate attacks against the crest of Col di Lan were repulsed. At the head of Sexton Valley the occupation of Sentinella Pass is now completed.

On the Carso plateau enemy artillery shelled the trenches east of Selz, necessitating the evacuation of a small section north. The Austrian forces renewed their attacks south of the valley, but were repulsed.

BRITISH LOSE 3,000 IN TIGRIS ATTACKS

Constantinople, April 25.—The British column on the Tigris lost 3,000 men in its attacks of Thursday and Saturday against the Turkish positions, according to an official statement issued here.

SIMPLE WAY TO GET RID OF BLACKHEADS

There is one simple, safe and sure way that never fails to get rid of blackheads and that is to dissolve them.

To do this get about two ounces of plain powdered saxonite from any drug store—sprinkle a little on a hot, wet sponge—rub over the blackheads briskly —smash the pores and you will be surprised how the blackheads have disappeared. Big blackheads, little blackheads, no matter where they are, simply dissolve and disappear, leaving the parts without any mark whatever. Blackheads are simply a mixture of dust and dirt and secretions from the body that form in the pores of the skin. Pinching and squeezing only cause irritation, make large pores and do not get them out after they become hard. The powdered saxonite and the water simply dissolve the blackheads so they wash right out, leaving the pores free and clean and in their natural condition. Anyone troubled with these unsightly blemishes should certainly try this simple method. —Advertisement.

CARRANZA SAID TO BE LOSING HIS GRIP

allied in other advices from North, South and Central Mexico. They tell of the paralysis of industry, shortage of food, general distrust of Carranza and reflect a state of mind among the populace which would welcome a change from present chaos to stability.

Financially the entire country is demoralized, the peso having dropped in value until it is all but worthless. The acid test of the country's finances will come within a week if, as previously announced, Carranza puts the country on a gold basis May 1.

STUCK TO POLICY.

The State and War Departments continued today to mark time. There will be no announced change of policy until after the conference to be held, probably at Juarez, between Major-General Hugh Scott, chief of staff of the army, and General Alvari Obregon, Carranza's Minister of War.

Secretary Lansing has informed Arredondo, Carranza's ambassador designate here, that meanwhile no reply will be made to Carranza's reiterated demand for the withdrawal of the American forces. Arredondo was at the State Department twice yesterday, asking when a reply would be made to Carranza's representations.

War Department officials refuse to be concerned for the safety of General Pershing's long-extended column. Although no announcement has been made to that effect, it seems probable that Pershing, in relinquishing his forces, will have Casas Grandes as the southernmost end of his column.

Meanwhile veteran campaigners here say there is no need for worry as to what unfriendly Carranzistas massing about Parral may attempt to do. They say that Pershing, with his superb equipment and abundance of ammunition, can give a good account of himself if the Carranzistas further attack him at Parral before he has finally redisposed his forces.

With his troops concentrated between Columbus and Casas Grandes, the line of communications would be shortened that there would be no cause for apprehension here as to the safety of the expedition while its future is being determined.

With Senator Fall's report on the Mexican situation before them, Republican leaders in the Senate today were deliberating over a course of action against the administration's Mexican policy. Senator Fall's report, based upon his observations during his visit along the border during the past month, has increased the alarm on the Republican side of the Senate over the possibility of a general attack upon General Pershing's column.

Lodge Meeting in Dugout on French Front

Sergeant J. H. Tryner, a Chapter Mason of Rockland, now recuperating in Dorchester from four wounds received on the western battle front in Europe, told of how he received the Victoria Cross at the 314th convocation of the Dorchester Royal Arch Chapter, which was attended by more than 300 members and visiting Masons.

A German shell exploded in his trench, and though wounded himself, he carried his eleven injured companions to safety. For this, after three months in a London hospital, he was personally decorated by King George.

He was engaged at Hill No. 60 in Belgium, taken, lost, and retaken by the British five times.

"Anyone who imagines that the Germans cannot fight is woefully mistaken," he said.

To give his story a Masonic tinge he told of a score of the craft meeting in a dugout at the front, where they opened a lodge and conferred the second and third degrees on a soldier who had received only the first when he left for the war.

GERMANS FAIL IN DEAD MAN'S HILL ATTACKS

London, April 25.—Three attacks by the Germans against the new positions of the French at Le Mort Homme, northwest of Verdun were repulsed by the French, the War Office announced today.

After an immense bombardment, the Germans again assaulted the French positions on the Avocourt line. This attack also was checked.

The communique reports hand-grenade fighting in the region of Apremont. The fighting west of the Meuse, according to the official information, was on a front approximately five miles wide.

The assaults of the Germans were evidently intended as a counter-offensive to check the steady advance of the French in that region.

Great masses of men were hurled against the French positions by the Crown Prince and the Germans suffered heavy losses.

"No. Why should we? We don't need one. Our New Perfection Oil Cookstove does all our cooking just as cheaply and much more conveniently than a coal range."

"But how about hot water?"

"Oh, haven't you seen our Perfection Water Heater? That burns kerosene too. It gives us plenty of hot water whenever we want it and costs about a cent and a half an hour when all three burners are going. But you want to be sure and get the best kerosene."

"Isn't all kerosene pretty much alike?"

"Not a bit of it. All kerosene isn't alike any more than all eggs are alike. Or all butter, or all lard."

"But how can I make sure of getting reliable kerosene?"

SHAKESPEARE CONTROVERSY RAGES ANEW

Sir Johnston Forbes-Robertson characterizes as "very amusing" the decision of Judge Richard Stanley Tuthill of the Illinois Circuit Court at Chicago that Sir Francis Bacon wrote Shakespeare's plays.

Sir Johnston is regarded as one of the most subtle interpreters of Shakespearean roles, especially that of Hamlet, that the stage knows.

He is presenting at Sanders Theatre, Harvard University, a special production of "Hamlet" on a stage erected for this particular engagement. He appears there tonight and tomorrow night. The latter night will be his farewell to the American stage.

Thus the eminent English actor happened to be engrossed in a particularly Shakespearean production at one of the centres of American learning when the judicial decision from Chicago found for Bacon and against the Bard of Avon. Sir Johnson disposed of the Chicago opinion, so far as he is concerned, by the following statement:

"NO LEG TO STAND ON."

"The Baconians haven't a leg to stand on. I have investigated all their claims some years ago, and my belief is firmly rooted that Shakespeare wrote the plays universally attributed to him.

"Without exception Shakespearean players have ridiculed the assertion that Bacon wrote the plays and that Shakespeare was no more than a poor actor of little education and only average intelligence. I have never doubted that Shakespeare wrote 'Hamlet.' No great actor has ever thought otherwise."

The decision, coming just at this Shakespearean tercentenary, has stirred up a tremendous discussion in Chicago. Dispatches from that city today quoted Horace Bridges, one of the directors of the Chicago Drama League, as assailing the decision as follows:

"It is one of the biggest jokes ever made. Judge Tuthill has done his best to make Chicago ridiculous. It is a monstrous delusion based upon an astounding ignorance of the Shakespearean period.

LETTERS THE FASHION.

"His contention that education was looked down upon in Elizabethan times is far from the truth. The smart people of those days were finely educated. Queen Elizabeth herself was a far greater scholar than the society women of today. Letters were the fashion of the age. I do not believe that this Bacon cipher exists. A cipher is something that will lead you to believe that anything means anything else.

"I have a cipher—discovered by some ingenious person—that will prove that Shakespeare wrote the Bible. His name was once commonly spelled 'S-h-a-k-s-p-e-a-r-e.' There are four letters in the first syllable, six in the latter. The four and six together make forty-six. Turn to the forty-sixth Psalm in the Prayer Book. Count forty-six words from the beginning of the psalm and you find the word 'Shake.' Then count forty-six words from the end of the psalm and you find the word 'spear.' There you have it; Shakespeare wrote the Bible."

Governor McCall of this State touched upon the Chicago decision in his address at the Shakespeare celebration at the Boston Opera House, Sunday, when he said ironically:

GOVERNOR TAKES A HAND.

"Shakespeare went to school for six years. Lincoln scarcely went to school at all. When the case shall reach the police courts of another century it may be adjudicated that it was not Lincoln but Edward Everett who spoke the immortal words at Gettysburg, and doubtless the ingenuity of another age will be able to find in the judicial opinion just rendered by a Chicago judge a cipher as substantial as that upon which he now relies, which shall reveal the modest confession that he was John Marshall."

Judge Tuthill's finding was in favor of Colonel George Fabyan of Chicago member of the firm of Bliss, Fabyan & Co., commission merchants of New York, Chicago and Boston. Colonel Fabyan recently revived the theory that Bacon wrote Shakespeare's plays and employed Shakespeare to interpret them. The Colonel had spent years of time and a small fortune in money in working up his theory by the aid of a cryptic code.

William N. Selig, a moving picture manufacturer, sought to enjoin Colonel Fabyan from publishing the facts which the Colonel alleged he possessed. Mr. Selig claimed that such publication of statements that Bacon was the real Shakespeare would injure the Selig projects of filming the Shakespearean drama. Judge Tuthill found for Bacon and Colonel Fabyan and awarded the Colonel $5,000 damages.

There may be more judicial probing, however. It is understood that the Selig interests will appeal to the Illinois higher court. On the other hand, Colonel Fabyan says he is ready to fight for Bacon right up to the United States Supreme Court.

The unveiling of the new Mitchell Six at the salesrooms of the Pope-Hartford Company in Copley square yesterday brought hundreds to the salesrooms. Everyone had words of praise for this latest Mitchell model, which seems to be all that is claimed for it, and a fitting successor for the well performing "Six of '16." Naturally, Mr. Lucas is decidedly pleased with the model.

MAUDE ADAMS DELIGHTS AT THE HOLLIS

By FRED J. McISAAC.

THAT SWEET AND TINY person, who for twenty years has occupied the post of America's most popular actress without encountering a serious rival, came to the Hollis Street Theatre last night, and, of course, drew a throng of Maude Adams worshippers.

Miss Adams is touring in the play that first established her in the position in which she is so firmly settled today, Barrie's "The Little Minister."

For several years past Miss Adams has been occupied largely in revivals of her old plays, simply because the public has never had enough of her in them. Her visits to Boston have been brief, as her season is a short one and because she feels that she must tour the whole country and make at least a short call upon all her friends.

It happens that I had never seen Maude Adams in "The Little Minister" since the first season in which she toured in it, and that was far more years ago than one would guess by looking at Lady Babbie as she flitted about last evening.

The comedy gave me more pure, unalloyed delight at that time than any I had ever seen before and than most that I have seen since. As I took my seat last night I wondered whether it wasn't a mistake to endanger a cherished recollection, but the curtain hadn't been up many minutes before I settled back and resumed the enjoyment of so many years ago.

Others may criticise Maude Adams, may say that her diction is imperfect and her intonation peculiar, that her dramatic powers are limited, and so on. I do not. I can understand every word she says, and I can appreciate that peculiar charm which she has exercised over American audiences for so long. I wouldn't have her different.

And the art of J. M. Barrie hasn't lost anything by age. The comedy is modern in thought and style. It still wields its power to please. The love romance of the young minister of the dour Scottish Kirk with the masquerading daughter of an Earl is as full of delight as ever. This all sounds more like a rhapsody than a review, but we can't always be in a critical mood.

The supporting company is capable. Dallas Anderson in the role of the minister was sufficiently earnest and manly. The work of Martin Sands, Elise Clarens, David Torrance, J. M. McFarlane, R. Peyton Carter and Ada Boshell is worthy of special mention.

MODERN THEATRE—A most happy mixture of thrills, heart interest and comedy is being offered the patrons this week in the two photo-features, shown for the first time in Boston yesterday. William Fox presents William Farnum in the photoplay, "A Man of Sorrow," which is a screen adaptation of the play made famous on the stage, "Hoodman Blind," often referred to as one of the greatest love plays ever produced. It tells of a man who has married a woman whom he is led to suspect through seeing her double in a compromising situation. He flees his country and travels abroad for years. The incidents that lead to his enlightenment upon his return are what make of this picture a heart-stirring and appealing drama. On the same bill, to continue through the week, there was shown the Paramount picture, John Barrymore in a screen adaptation of Channing Pollock's and Rennold Wolf's "The Red Widow." As the young American corset salesman, who, in his visit to Russia, becomes embroiled in a Nihilist plot, is elected a member of the order and is chosen as an avenging messenger of death, Mr. Barrymore led in the most excruciating funny series of adventures ever shown on the sheet stage. It is one hurrah of hilarity from beginning to end, and easily ranks as a great contribution to screen humor. Flora Zabelle is seen in the role she played on the speaking stage when the "Widow" was first produced, and John Hendricks and George E. Mack are prominent in the cast.

PARK THEATRE—Marie Doro in "The Heart of Nora Flynn" is featured for this week. Miss Doro is seen in the role of a nursemaid in the home of Brantley Stone, a financier. Nora is attached to the children of her employer, and when she finds that the mother is in love with Jack Murray, a young society man, she resolves to protect the children if trouble arises. Nolan, the chauffeur, is Nora's sweetheart, and is jealous of the young man who takes notice of the pretty maid. At his club Stone overhears a remark that involves his wife with Murray, and, ordering Nolan to drive him home, he goes to investigate. Murray and Mrs. Stone are about to leave together when the car arrives, and, true to her determination, Nora hides Murray in her rom, in order to ward suspicion from the mother. Nolan searches for Murray, finds him and accidentally shoots him in the shoulder. Also on the program are Francis Bushman and Beverly Bayne, the idols of Boston's theatregoers, in the five-part Metro production, "The Wall Between." It is the story of how a young man, whose father is president of a bank, after enlisting in the army, finds a wall between himself and those who in civil life were glad to call themselves his equal. Following on the bill are the latest release of the Metro Drew comedy, and the Selig Tribune of current events, mainly of New England. An added attraction for this week is Madame Calvert and her quartet, all popular Boston singers who rendered several selections from the operas.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE—A theatrical season would not be complete without the annual visit of the Smart Set Company, as was evievidenced yesterday when the noted colored performers inaugurated their engagement at this popular South End playhouse. Two capacity attendances greeted the musical offering, "George Washington Bullion Abroad." Salem Tutt Whitney, the inimitable colored comedian, appeared in the show, surrounded by a cast of comedians, dancers and singers, including Miss Blanche Thompson, a prima donna, whose remarkably sweet voice was heard to excellent advantage in a number of song specialties. J. Homer Tutt, the Beau Brummel of colored performers, Miss Hattie Ackers and the famous "Bronze Beauty Chorus." The musical numbers comprise many of the latest song hits, including "Strutting Sam," "Don't Do That to Me, Dear," "My Rose Marie," "Love Me Anywhere" and a score of others. Dancing specialties abound, and the fun is fast and furious from beginning to end. The engagement is limited to this week only, and matinees will be given daily.

FRANKLIN PARK THEATRE—Francis X. Bushman in "The Wall Between" drew big crowds at both performances yesterday. The latest episode of "The Iron Claw" is the most interesting since the start and the big vaudeville show is, as usual, of the very best. The picture feature for the last half of the week will be "My Old Dutch." The usual features will be added to the show for Thursday. It is announced that the first episode of "The Mysteries of Myra" will be seen the last half of next week.

LOUIS MANN IN CLEVER DRAMA

LOUIS MANN, considered one of the foremost character actors of this country, appeared in one of the greatest successes of his long career, "The Bubble," at the Wilbur Theatre last night.

His portrayal of a quick-tempered but lovable old delicatessen dealer, kept the huge audience in roars of laughter, and he was admirably supported by the remainder of the cast.

"The Bubble" is a comedy drama in three acts by Edward Locke, and deals with the experiences of Gustave Muller, the delicatessen dealer, with a get-rich-quick scheme.

At the opening of the play Gustave Muller and his wife are rounding out twenty-five years of happy married life together, and have amassed the comfortable, to them, fortune of $25,000. Their daughter, Rose, is in love with Richard Graham, a newspaperman. Gustave refuses to countenance their suit because writing is not a "business," but principally because Graham has put him into a short story, which he sold.

MANN'S ACTING REMARKABLE.

The Muller family live in a comfortably furnished home in the rear of their shop, a home that has been made by themselves, and of which they are proud. One evening a suave promoter, Joseph Mahlen, introduces himself to the couple as a grandson of a former Leipsic tea salesman, who used to sell tea to Muller's mother in Leipsic.

The simple-hearted, homely couple are overcome by Mahlen's stories of money making, and listen in amazement as he tells of unheard of wealth. During this interview Mr. Mann displays remarkable character acting; his desire to make his wife say and do the proper thing, while at the same time he tries to listen to Mahlen, keeps the audience in almost continuous laughter.

Impregnated with the get-rich-quick germ, the old man places his entire fortune in Mahlen's hands, buying stock in the Prophet mine, and at once wishes to change his surroundings.

REPORTER SAVES DAY.

Believing himself to be on the road to fabulous wealth, he engages luxurious apartments, and makes arrangements to purchase an automobile. He learns that money means credit, and becomes exceedingly contemptuous of anyone who pays cash.

Mrs. Muller refuses to take to the new "partment" as she calls it, and in a pathetic scene declares that she will not leave her beloved furniture to go to a place where her husband has said she could not even enter the kitchen.

They are just about to move into the new quarters, when it is found that Mahlen is a swindler, and that the stock is not worth a cent. However, Rose and the reporter have forestalled the promoter, the day is saved and everything ends happily.

Mrs. Muller is played by Mme. Mathilde Cottrelly, Rose by Miss Laura Walker, Richard Graham, the reporter, George Wellington, and Joseph Mahlen by Ivan R. Miller.

PARK SQUARE THEATRE—The long anticipated matinee of the Players' League will take place this afternoon. Rehearsals were completed yesterday and the program, which is remarkably variated, will offer "The War Child," a dramatic playlet; "The Parrot," a comedy; an Egyptian ballet, and the balcony scene from "Romeo and Juliet." The first named has already caused considerable discussion. The piece is intensely dramatic and depicts a phase of the great European war. The important character will be played by Adeline Adler, a prominent society woman of Brookline and at one time identified with several of the best known theatrical producing firms.

Coming Events

MAJESTIC THEATRE—Next week's attraction will be the popular musical comedy, "The Only Girl," which comes back for a return engagement with the same cast. Seats will go on sale Thursday. Summer prices will prevail, the highest evening price will be $1.50, and the best orchestra seats at both the Wednesday and Saturday matinees will be $1.

COLONIAL THEATRE—When "The Dawn," the new three-act comedy-drama by George D. Parker, is presented beginning Monday, May 1, theatregoers of Boston will have the opportunity of witnessing the first of the A. H. Woods series of new plays for the coming season. In "The Dawn" Mr. Woods believes he has discovered the most human, the most virile and the most absorbing drama in many years. He has chosen one of his characteristic casts to present the play. It includes Robert Edeson, Kathlene MacDonell, Helen Lowell, Sarah McVicker, Everett Butterfield, Edward See, Jane Eustace and Forrest Robinson.

ORPHEUM THEATRE—The Easter week offering of Marcus Loew yesterday was as excellent an all-round vaudeville bill as he has ever shown in this city. The leading feature is Paul Armstrong's "Romance of the Underworld," a one-act play. If there was any number on the bill that seemed to have any preference it was that of Weber, Dolan and Frazer, who offered an act that combined songs and bright lines. Nor were this trio alone in this regard, for there was Claude and Marion Cleveland who are Bostonians and did credit to the city by their cleverness. Hendricks and Padula are an exceedingly capable pair that make ragtime sound good. Joe Cole and Gertrude Denahy are whirlwind dancers who have made their European conquests and present an act that is a breath-taker. The Vanias Four, in a singing oddity, "A Fisherman's Betrothal," have a novel and delightful act. Walter Le Roy, Emily Lytton and Company play a rural one-act comedy entitled, "Neighbors," that is worthy of Will Cressy. Zita, a beautiful woman of shapely proportions, who knows how to pose, gave an artistic posing act. The feature photoplay for the first three days was J. Warren Kerrigan in "The Gay Lord Waring." The massive orchestra, under the leadership of Carl Hand, enhanced the acts and pictures most effectively.

BOSTON THEATRE—Ethel Barrymore, the celebrated legitimate actress, is appearing for the first time in Boston in her newest photoplay, "The Kiss of Hate," here this week. "The Kiss of Hate" is a romance of Jewish persecution and official intrigue among the bureaucry of darkest Russia. Miss Barrymore plays the role of a beautiful girl whose father is murdered by the Prefect of Police in her native district, her brother tortured and sent to Siberia to die, and she herself debauched by the brutal will of the villainous police chief. Now the girl vows vengeance on her arch enemy, falls in love with his son, a dashing young officer in the Imperial Guard, and then reeks vengeance upon the cruel Prefect is shown. Second only in interest to the appearance of Miss Barrymore, is the second and last week of Charlie Chaplin's burlesque on "Carmen." Owing to the large number of people who were unable to see this picture last week, arrangements have been made to hold it over. The vaudeville portion of the bill includes James Diamond and Sybil Brennan in "Nifty Nonsense," Melino Twins, in acrobatic stunts Kenny and Nobody in a comedy act, Hartman and Varady, the sensational whirlwind Hungarian dancers; and a big musical and singing spectacle, in which a large chorus of singers and several soloists appear.

WALDRON'S CASINO—The dominant characteristic of "Snuffy," Dave Marion, is his untiring ambition. No sooner is the current season's show well under way than he is at work on one for the next year, which he intends shall surpass the present. His ambition to do big things almost knows no limit. This season will be long remembered by the present production, entitled, "Around the World," one of the greatest burlesque shows that has ever been offered to lovers of that class of entertainment. The Marion show positively offers more real acknowledged stars of extravaganza than any other; the scenic production surpasses in magnificence any other burlesque show; the book of the play is more consistently entertaining than others; A Marion chorus is distinctively superior; Marian music has the right ring to it, and the Marion show is noted for its cast and big chorus of pretty girls. Marion heads the cast and in chief support are Barney Fagan, Inez Deverder, Helen Byron, Agnes, Buehler, George Banks, Rosie Mack, Mlle. Bartoletti, Frank Schiand, Alf Harrington, James Deitrich and the Arion Four. There are daily matinees.

TREMONT TEMPLE—The Pluragraph Company's special program of five motion pictures, twelve reels in all, are being shown all this week, continuously from 1 to 10:30 p. m. The performance begins with a series of Red Cross pictures under the patronage of Miss Mabel Boardman. These are followed by Edgar Allan Poe's "The Purloined Letter." The third picture, "A Day with Ella Wheeer Wilcox," shows the home life of this popular authoress. Following is a photo play written by and produced under the personal supervision of the late Richard Harding Davis, entitled "The Boy Scout." Another feature is "Diana the Huntress," picturized by Francis T. Miller and colored by F. B. Hoehstetter.

COLONIAL THEATRE—George Arliss in "Paganini," after a very successful fortnight at the Hollis Street Theatre, moved into this theatre yesterday and will entertain there for a week. Knoblauch's clever play, dealing with the life of the master violinist, gives America's cleverest character actor an exceptional opportunity for one of those creations which you never forget, like "Disraeli." The little love story which runs so charmingly through the play, and the quaint costumes and manners of the period combine with the excellent company, which is headed by Margery Maude, to fascinate any audience.

CRANE PLAYS REVIVAL OF OLD PART

WILLIAM H. CRANE, the veteran actor, supported by an all-star cast, opened his Boston revival of "The New Henrietta," before a large audience at the Majestic Theatre last evening.

Mr. Crane, who observes his seventy-first birthday next Sunday, first appeared in the original production, with Bronson Howard, the author, in 1887. Now that he has decided to retire from the stage he chose to play as his farewell the part which brought him fame and reputation.

As "Old Nick" Mr. Crane was ably supported by Thomas W. Ross, Maclyn Arbuckle, Amelia Bingham and Edith Taliaferro.

Certainly last night Mr. Crane was as sprightly, as resourceful, as theatrically effective, as in the days of yore. Whenever in the scene, he dominated it.

Miss Bingham was a charming Mrs. Opdike and Miss Taliaferro was delightful in the old fashioned role of Agnes, but Mr. Ross as "Bertie" furnished the chief surprise of the play. There may be old-time playgoers in Boston who will be eager to criticise Mr. Ross in comparison with Mr. Robson, the "Bertie" of bygone days, but Mr. Ross completely won his audience last night.

Mr. Arbuckle was delightfully funny as the stock gambling clergyman.

Altogether the "revival" is decidedly interesting and the only thing about it to be regretted is that Mr. Crane and his co-stars are to remain at the Majestic for only one week.

All Star Bill at B. F. Keith's

KEITH'S has one of those all-star vaudeville bills this week with Irene Franklin, Mary Shaw and Lew Dockstader leading the way.

Miss Franklin has some new songs which are worthy successors of old favorites. There is the song, "The Old Maids' Home for Mine," telling of the troubles of a young girl whose family invite themselves in as she is entertaining possible husbands and drive them away. "The Cash Girl" song tells of her woes in a big store, and there is the lay of a chorus girl who married a millionaire only to find him a human cream-puff. For encores she sings some of the good old favorites, while Friend Husband Burton Green makes accompaniment all the while on the grown up piano.

Mary Shaw has long been a favorite in the deep stuff and high-brow plays of Ibsen, Shaw and that ilk, but she bossoms forth as a thirty-minute comedienne in a rattling good farce, "The Dicky Bird," in which her former husband comes with his young bride to rent an apartment, only to come face to face with his ex-wife. She tells the young wife of some of her husband's failings only to be scorned. It is very amusing.

Lew Dockstader is back with his impersonation of Colonel Roosevelt and looks and talks very much like the colonel himself, teeth, eye glasses, khaki suit and all. He has some funny things to say about politics, himself, George Washington and Taft. He tells for the first time the real story of how he discovered the River of Doubt.

Others on the bill are so good that they keep the stars hustling for honors.

Leo Beers whistles a little, tells some amusing stories as he plays, and strolls off the stage most nonchalantly.

Animal acts are usually put on a bill to amuse the children, but Derkin's act, in which dogs go in and out of a miniature square, get arrested, flirt, and walk about with no one on the stage except themselves, is far above the ordinary. Roger Gray is a big, funny fellow, who, with three others, give a lot of nonsense in song and talk. Mlle. Sabina has a most artistic dancing act in a very dainty setting.

The Hearst-Vitagraph News Weekly has some up-to-the-minute pictures.

LOEW'S ST. JAMES THEATRE—This popular theatre presented a remarkable bill yesterday. Principal on the bill and leading in the comedy is the one act playlet, "Liz," which affords Julia Nash a starring vehicle in which she is supported by an excellent company. Harry Le Clair, the favorite impersonator, had the house in an uproar at every appearance. Laura and Billy Dryer are a pair of dancers of the expert variety, and Belle Oliver offered a group of songs that won much applause. Bufford and Chain, who are billed as "two loose pages from the book of fun," show that they were chosen from the best part of the book, and The Kratons show to what degree of proficiency they have brought their command over rolling hoops and other juggling feats. There was shown yesterday the first instalment of the serial, "Mysteries of Myra," of the serial, "Mysteries of Myra," the story of which is told on onother page.

GAIETY THEATRE—Ben Welch, the well known Hebrew comedian, and his burlesque company, opened at the Gaiety Theatre for a week's engagement yesterday. Mr. Welch is easily one of the best entertainers in vaudeville today and he had no difficulty in keeping the audiences in a continuous roar of laughter. The show is divided into two parts entitled "A Lord for a Day" and "The Hero of Brighton Beach." There are twenty musical numbers written by Irving Berlin and Len Fleming. They are exceptionally well staged and the songs are well sung. The elaborate wadrobe adds much to the effectiveness of the performance. Mr Welch has surrounded himself with an unusual cast of performers including Pat Kearney, Florence Rother, Minnie "Bud" Harrison, Vic Casmore, Freda Florence, Harriet Herbert, Goff Phillips and Arthur Gordon. The chorus girls, about twenty in number, are vivacious and pretty and go far towards making the performance one of the very best of the season.

PARK SQUARE HAS BRIGHT COMEDY

By FREDERICK JOHNS.

"PRINCESS PAT" is the brightest little musical comedy that has come to Boston in a long time. And it is appropriately housed in the Park Square Theatre, which is petite like the Princess herself, so that the audience has something like a tete-a-tete with the vivacious Princess and her fellow performers.

Victor Herbert, who composed "Princess Pat" in one of his most sprightly and tuneful moods, conducted the opening performance last night and was honored by a full house of fastidious theatre-goers, which augured well for the run of "Princess Pat" in view of the numerous premiers in Boston last night.

The music and action of "Princess Pat" are sparkling and altogether delightful. The action is thickly sprinkled with melodious and vivacious songs and dancing. The cast of principals is most excellent. The chorus girls are few and pretty—unanimously so, which is something to brag about. The play is excellently staged; the costuming most attractive. And the production of the music comedy in a smaller than usual theatre is a pleasing novelty.

The action of the play depends upon the flirtatious adventures of the Princess Di Montaldo, nee Patrice O'Connor, and is lively and amusing throughout.

There is a well constructed story which aids in sustaining interest.

After the second act Mr. Herbert gave the audience what he said the newspapers would call a "bit of blarney," so, not to disappoint the celebrated composer, his rather embarrassed curtain call speech will be so characterized. In constructing the play Mr. Herbert was assisted by Henry Blossom and Fred G. Latham, and he gave them due credit for their efforts.

With Ruth Welsh, sweet and dainty, sang the Princess. Miss Eva Fallon, another winsome songbird, had the part of Grace Holbrook. Miss Leonora Novasio, who, besides being a clever singer is a good dancer, had the maid's part. Sam B. Hardy played Bob Darrow, the "fix-it" man. Robert Ober was Tony Schmalz, Jr., Al Shean played Anthony Schmalz. David Quixano was Princess Pat's husband. They are all exceptionally capable. Not forgetting the legs of Alexander Clark as Si Perkins.

In the third act Miss Katherine Nitchie and Ralph Riggs performed an engaging incidental dance.

GLOBE THEATRE—This theatre offered yesterday a bill of vaudeville acts, superlative in quality and pleasing power, which was headed by Daisy Harcourt, the English comedienne, who sings a program of songs with a change of costume for each. As an artist she ranks with the very best, her line of chatter convulsing the audiences. Her suffragette speech was a gem. The one-act playlet, "Anybody's Husband," proved to be a most novel comedy. Stone and Marion were entertainers with song and incidental talk, and the Wartenberg Brothers showed ability of the sensational order as foot jugglers. Beside other vaudeville features there was shown the feature picture Lillian Gish in "Sold for Marriage," which was the newest of David Griffith's offerings, and it may well be termed the masterpiece of this creator of "Birth of a Nation." There will be an entire change of bill on Thursday.

SHUBERT THEATRE—"A World of Pleasure," the big Winter Garden Show which is headed by Clifton Crawford, continues to attract big patronage.

PLYMOUTH THEATRE—May Irwin, in "33 Washington Square," has caught Boston on the funnybone and the laughter is continuous. A good, clean, hearty farce comedy.

SHAKESPEARE HONORED BY CRAIG

SHAKESPEARE is acted none too much.

Everywhere, the 300th anniversary of the death of the greatest of all dramatists is being celebrated in various ways. John Craig, with his famous Craig Players are to present for the coming two weeks to Castle Square patrons, what is termed a ter-centenary festival.

The good feast of Shakespeare plays opened yesterday with "Romeo and Juliet," Mr. Craig as Romeo and Mary Young as Juliet. Could you wish for anything better? On Thursday, "As You Like It" will supplant "Romeo and Juliet," for the remainder of the week.

Yesterday's matinee was patronized by nearly 3,000 school children from Cambridge. The arrangements were made by Mr. Craig and Mayor Rockwood. The scholars proved a most appreciative audience. Last night's house was packed.

As for the performance, both from an artistic standpoint, and a histrionic one, it was, indeed, most creditable. Followers of the Bard of Avon were well pleased.

Detail seems to be Mr. Craig's slogan in all of his productions. It is, however, much more noticeable in his Shakespearian endeavors. His attention to costumes and scenic effects in yesterday's production caused much favorable comment.

No little credit is due the admirable cast supporting Mr. Craig and his wife. Their interpretations show long, careful thought and much knowledge of the great writer's work.

Next week Mr. Craig will offer "Hamlet," and "The Taming of the Shrew." In presenting this ter-centenary festival the Castle Square well deserves its title—namely—"The Theatre of Surprises."

TWO NIECES CONTEST WILL OF BULLARD WHO LEFT MILLION

That the late John Anson Bullard of Holliston, who died January 15, leaving an estate that is estimated at $1,100,000, slept in a small office room on Purchase street, this city, on an improvised bed consisting of two barrels and a board; that he used a candle for light when the place was wired for electricity, and that he wore old and dirty clothing, was the testimony of Henry C. Thompson, a State street patent attorney, before Judge Lawton in the Probate Court at East Cambridge today, where the will is being contested.

Bullard was 93 years of age when he died. Hiss will is being contested by Mrs. Francis Tillinghast of St. Petersburg, Fla., a grandniece, and Mrs. William H. Howard of Manchester-by-the-Sea, a niece, who is at present in California on a visit. They are represented by Attorneys Choate, Hall & Stewart. Both received small bequests in the will, the total amount of which, however, is not over $2,000.

The executors of the will, Edward H. Ellis of Marlboro, James H. Flint of Weymouth and Raleigh R. Adams of Newton, are represented by Attorneys Sprout & Kendall.

The first witness was Abram T. Collier of Winchester, vice-president of the Shawmut National Bank. Mr. Collier knew the deceased for about thirty-five years and was one of the witnesses to the will. He described Mr. Bullard as an exceptionally keen man, not miserly but "close fisted" in money matters. He testified that Bullard was not clean in his habits or dress. In money matters, Bullard always wanted to do business his own way.

Henry C. Thompson, who followed Mr. Collier, also testified that on one occasion he warned Bullard of the danger from fire from the candle Bullard brought food to the room and on one occasion Thompson saw him coming along Purchase street with a loaf of French bread under his arm.

Thompson told of an argument that Bullard had with a window cleaner over the price of the work. Bullard saw some dirt left on the windows and insisted that the man go over all of the windows again. The window cleaner refused to do this and Bullard made the man reduce his price for the work.

Every Cold Should Be Considered Serious

So say the best medical authorities! Unless promptly checked, often they lead to chronic bronchial and pulmonary troubles which may prove fatal.

If your cough or cold has not responded to treatment—and remember—medicine should not be solely relied on—timely use of Eckman's Alterative may give you relief.

For more than twenty years it has been benefiting sufferers from those disorders. It is especially indicated where the system demands lime, for it contains calcium chloride so combined as to be easily assimilated by the average person.

Safe to try—because it contains no harmful or habit-forming drugs of any sort whatsoever.

Shakespeare a Suffragist Had He Lived in 1916

Enthusiastic suffragists gathered this afternoon at Hotel Lenox to have a "get together meeting" and listen to a delightful program in celebration of Shakespeare and Spring. Josephine Preston Peabody (Mrs. Marks), a widely known author and suffragist, read some sonnets of Shakespeare and Miss Ruth Rollins sang a group of Spring songs. A charming pantomime dance called "Spring" was given by a group of attractive young girls. The hostesses of the afternoon were Mrs. Frederick P. Bagley, Mrs. Josephine Preston Peabody Marks, Miss Fanny C. Osgood, Miss Alice Stone Blackwell, Mrs. Frances Peabody Magoun, Mrs. L. J. Johnson, the speaker of the afternoon, said:

"Since this is a Shakespeare afternoon it does not seem inappropriate for a woman to talk politics. Shakespeare would surely be our ardent advocate. He lived and thrived under the rule of good Queen Bess, therefore women and government seemed to him a wholesome and beneficial combination."

Daring Burglar in Malden is---a 10-Year-Old Girl

Ten-year-old Mary Todd of Malden wanted some dolls and their clothes, according to the Malden police, so she broke into the home of Herbert L. Brown of No. 191 Salem street, today, and took about $35 worth. Dolls, dolls' clothes, children's clothes, two children's banks and a pocketbook, the officers say, comprised her loot. The Browns discovered the break and notified the police.

After a search of about an hour the officers located the little Todd girl in the woods about a half mile from her home. She had most of the loot about her when the police came upon her. Later she showed the officers where she had buried a pocketbook, in which was a valuable charm. She was later turned over to her parents, and the goods she had taken returned to their owner.

MANY BAY STATE TIES COULD BE 'SHOVELED OUT,' SAYS MACLEOD

Chairman Frederick A. Macleod of the Public Service Commission, at the hearing today on the proposed six-cent fare increase of the Bay State Railway Company, caused a stir when he said that some of the track ties of the road could be shovelled out. Later he said he was speaking "metaphorically."

Robert M. Feustel, the $50-a-day engineering expert of the road, who appraised the property of the road and reported that it needed $1,600,000 additional each year to keep it in good running order, was testifying about the trackage and bedding at the time he was interrupted by Chairman Macleod, who said:

"Mr. Feustel, you know it is true, and the commission knows it is true, that there is a vast number of ties on the Bay State which have outlived their usefulness and are serving no purpose whatever. Undoubtedly some could be shovelled out. If these ties have exceeded the life you assigned them, isn't it an indication that new ties should have been put in?"

"I should say so," added Feustel.

This was the fifth consecutive day of the hearing in which Expert Feustel has testified. He was cross-examined again today by City Solicitor Arthur G. Wadleigh, chief of the allied counsel for the cities and towns through which the Bay State cars pass.

Questioned by Attorney Wadleigh:

Q.—Mr. Feustel, under your figures, then, the Bay State is almost normal? A.—A little less than normal.

Commissioner Joseph B. Eastman asked the witness several questions, one of which was:

Q.—How can the property be so nearly normal and still need the increased revenue you speak of? A.—Well, that's the way I figure it.

Attorney Wadleigh:

Q.—What is the ordinary life of a tie? A.—A tie ranges from ten to thirty-five years.

Q.—Are there any ties exceeding the life you think proper? A.—The ties are in need of more attention than any other feature of the track structure.

Q.—These ties have outlived their usefulness, but the public have been paying revenue on them? A.—No.

Q.—Well, the people have been paying dividends, haven't they? A.—Yes.

Expert Feustel said the following number of single truck open cars were now in use:

Four cars which have been operated thirty-two years; 133 cars, 27 years; 73 cars, 23 years; 26 cars, 22 years; 200 cars, 21 years. He said the cars in use for thirty-two years would be retired in a year or two anyway.

PREPAREDNESS IS AMERICAN SLOGAN

Not Only Against the Armed Foe Without, but the Insidious Disease Within.

"Preparedness" is now the battle cry of Americans, and the old adage, "In time of peace prepare for war," was never more aptly illustrated than in the present introduction of Plant Juice, for the most cruel war that has ever been waged is that of disease against the human body. The more cruel because the body is so seldom prepared for the invasion of disease.

The world is full of people who are suffering from stomach, liver and kidney troubles and their attending symptoms. It is a ceaseless battle for existence. We cannot hope to change these modern conditions, but look elsewhere for relief. Plant Juice is the logical answer, as is attested by the signed testimonials of local people who have been restored to health, as, for instance, the case of Mrs. Laura Morrison, who lives at No. 25 Common street, and is a well-known and popular Boston lady, having resided in this city for the past 16 years. She stated:

"For over eight years I had suffered with indigestion and dyspepsia. I could not digest my food and it would ferment in my stomach and form gas, from which I suffered terribly. I could hardly retain any food in my stomach it was so weak; had headaches, was very dizzy at times; had heartburn, and a tired feeling all the time. I could not sleep at night and felt all tired out in the morning. I had tried a great many different kinds of medicine without relief, and I am now glad to state publicly that since I have taken Plant Juice I feel like a new woman; I have a good appetite for all of my meals, have no more headaches, and am glad to recommend Plant Juice, as it has cured me of all my troubles."

The Plant Juice Man is at the Drug Department of the Houghton & Dutton Co.'s store, where he is daily meeting the local public and introducing and explaining the merits of this remedy.—Advertisement.

How to Look Years Less Than Your Age

The most aged face will look years younger after the use of ordinary mercolized wax for from ten days to two weeks. This remarkable substance, because of its peculiar absorptive power, actually removes the thin veil of faded or withered outer cuticle, a little at a time. Gradually the fresher, more youthful skin underneath is revealed. This absorption process being a purely hygienic one, an entirely natural complexion is acquired—quite different from the artificial complexion, which appears anything but girlish, though often bearing painful evidence of childishness. An ounce of mercolized wax, obtainable at any drug store, is sufficient to rejuvenate any complexion. It is put on like cold cream at bedtime, and removed mornings with warm water.

To eradicate such age marks as wrinkles and furrows, make a wash lotion by dissolving 1 oz. powdered saxolite in ½ pt. witch hazel. This has wonderful astringent and tonic properties. It quickly effaces all kinds of wrinkles, no matter how caused, making the skin firm, smooth and young looking.—Advertisement.

Nervous Periodical Headaches

This trouble commonly called "sick headache, is said to be due to the retention of urea in the system. Often it is stated that a poor condition of the blood is a cause of these headaches, or that it is a nervous condition; and in certain cases, no doubt this is true.

Where treatment is demanded, it is more for the pain than anything else, and Dr. A. F. Schellschmidt of Louisville, has found anti-kamnia tablets to give prompt and satisfactory relief. "Rest should be insisted upon," he says, "and the patient should go to bed, darken the room, and all the attendants and family should be as quiet as possible. An emetic will sometimes shorten the attack. The bowels should be kept open with "Actoids"; a hot bath and a thorough rub-down with a coarse towel, often give grateful relief. Two anti-kamnia tablets when the first signs appear, will usually prevent the attack. During an attack, one tablet every hour or two will shorten the attack and relieve the usual nausea and vomiting." These tablets may be obtained at all druggists. Ask for A-K Tablets. They are also unexcelled for nervous headaches, neuralgia and all pains.

SOCIETY FOLK AT PLAYERS' BALLET

Society people in large numbers attended the professional matinee given at the Park Square Theatre today by the Players' League of Boston.

The feature of the performance was an amateur ballet, "Nubi," an Egyptian fantasy originated by H. B. Marshall Hall and Mrs. Jane Seagrave. Special music for the pantodrama was written by Miss Grace H. Warner and Albert Stoessel.

The title role was portrayed by Mr. Hall, with Miss Melba Proctor of Brookline as the little slave girl. The ballet was the most spectacular production offered in Boston this season by an amateur company, and the cast was made up of many prominent Bostonians.

Mrs. Lucy Crandon played the part of the Evil Princess Riezade; Miss Madeline Coy, the Good Princess Shah, and Mrs. Florence Adams, Aleta.

Innocence and Love were portrayed by Miss Mildred Charles and Mrs. Abbie M. Mackay; Thunder and Lightning by Newton Shriver and George Libby.

The Priest in the Temple of Osiris was Richard Hussey; the Priestesses, Misses Mildred Morris and Gertrude Dunn. The Handmaidens of the Princess Shah were Misses Lillian Southard, Gertrude Dunn, Mildred Morris, Mona Rawding; Maidens of the Sun: Gwendoline Ridgeway, Marguerite Ridgeway, Florence Barker, Lilla Dade; Maidens of the Spring: Grace Rowland, Esther Bennet, Edith Gwin and Marjorie Gates.

FIRST SHOWING OF 'MYSTERIES OF MYRA'

By FRED J. McISAAC.

SINCE THE "PERILS OF PAULINE" was sprung upon a surprised world there has been a multitude of serial stories, most of them so attenuated through the continual spinning out of episodes and ideas that they have become grotesque. Interest began to fall off, and many good picture theatres found their patrons opposed to serials and felt obliged to give them up.

At the St. James Theatre, the South End, the Comique on Tremont row, and at the Bijou Theatre in Fall River, was shown yesterday the first installment of a marvelous picture, one which starts like the biggest serial that was ever shown, and which is sure to revive interest in this form of entertainment.

In the first place much longer sections of the story are displayed. Where the old serials used to be one and two reels in length, "Myra" is three. It unfolds a story that combined the imagination of Jules Verne with the melodramatic instinct of Theodore Kremer. It is as full of thrills as a pudding full of plums, and it is logical, sensible and capable of being enjoyed by sensible people.

The production keeps pace with the theme and the cast is splendid. The principals are Howard Estabrook, who plays Dr. Payson Alden; Jean Sothern, who is Myra Maynard; Bessie Wharton, Mrs. Maynard; Allan Murnane as Arthur Varney and M. W. Rale, Grand Master of the Black Order.

There are numerous exceedingly ingenious effects secured by double tinting and trick photography. The story of the first episode follows:

The opening installment is in three reels. John Maynard was a member of the Black Order, an organization of Devil Worshippers. He was married and at the time of his death was survived by a wife and three daughters. In his will it states that should none of his daughters live after their eighteenth year his entire fortune is to be left to the order.

Two of his daughters have mysteriously committed suicide on the eve of their eighteenth birthday.

Myra is the sole surviving daughter, and the serial opens a few days before she is to celebrate the eighteenth anniversary of her birth.

Arthur Varney, who is also a member of the Black Order, is in love with Myra and pleads that she may be permitted to live, offering to give the order her entire fortune after he weds her, but his offer is ruled down.

Dr. Alden (Howard Estabrook) has made a study of things occult and has kept a private record of the Maynard case and the two mysterious suicides and tries to have Mrs. Maynard permit him to investigate the case before any harm can befall Myra.

Mrs. Maynard refuses to have anything to do with him. He refuses to be put off and breaks into the house at night and lays a trap to discover where Myra's somnambulistic wanderings take her.

On the night before her birthday he remains in the house and tracks her to the secret chamber in the home and prevents her suicide. Her mind during these wanderings is controlled and directed by the concentrated mental efforts of the thirteen members of the Black Order.

After the failure of Myra to obey the mental orders of the Devil Worshippers, Arthur Varney is sent to learn the reason.

He reports back to the Grand Master and another plan is laid to bring about the death of the girl. This closes the first installment.

STOCKS AND INVESTMENTS

By W. H. ROSS, Financial Editor

Stocks were still strong at noon, there having been no morning reaction. Although there was a large supply at highest prices, offerings were readily absorbed. Commission house buying was a factor. Strength extended throughout the list, but railroads, the quietest group, showed little price variation. Trading was largely confined to specialties. The market, in fact, was not distinguished by breadth.

The Boston market opened strong with a number of issues showing a point or more gain. American Zinc, U. S. Smelting and Boston Elevated were the most active issues in early trading. Elevated opened with an advance of two points. By noon the local market was stronger than at the start. A number of coppers advanced materially. Gains included American Zinc 1½, Butte & Superior 1, Calumet & Arizona 1⅝, Copper Range 2¼, Lake 1¼, Quincy 2½, North Butte 1, Mohawk 1¼, Osceola 1⅝, Allouez 1½, St. Mary 1, Tamarack 1½, Wolverine 1½, U. S. Smelting 2¼, United Shoe ¾ and Woolen preferred ¼.

When the London metal market reopened after Easter holidays copper and spelter quotations were unchanged. Spot and futures tin were off 10s and Straits 15s. Spot lead declined 12s 6d and futures 10s.

Common Stock, 500,000 shares—without par value.

NO MORTGAGE OR OTHER BONDED INDEBTEDNESS OUTSTANDING

Cash has been set aside to retire liens outstanding against the properties at the time of purchase.

For information as to the Corporation, reference is made to a letter of Manuel Rionda, Esq., President of Cuba Cane Sugar Corporation, copies of which may be obtained at our office, and from which we summarize as follows:

1.—The Preferred Stock is represented by assets consisting of 17 sugar mills, 330,000 acres of land, 395 miles of railway, and other property located in Cuba and valued at more than $50,000,000. (Proceedings for transfer of title to one of said 17 mills have not yet been completed and the amount of its land and railway, when accurately determined, may necessitate some change in the foregoing figures.)

2.—The lands of the Corporation are well located; its mills are well equipped.

3.—Cuba can produce sugar more cheaply by at least ½ cent per pound than any other part of globe.

4.—The Articles of Incorporation provide that an amount equal to 2 years' dividends on the Preferred Shares shall be accumulated before any dividend may be declared or paid on the Common Shares, and that at no time shall any dividend be paid on the Common Shares which will reduce the accumulated profits below that amount. It is estimated that the earnings for the current year will be sufficient to enable the Company, after paying the full dividend on the Preferred Shares, to set aside this entire reserve fund of $7,000,000 and still leave a substantial surplus.

5.—Lowest average price at which sugar has sold in recent years was 2 1-16 cents, in 1912-13 owing to special causes not likely to recur. Even with sugar selling at 2 cents per pound, it is estimated that the Preferred Stock dividend will be earned at least 1½ times.

6.—Important economies of operation are possible, through unified operation of mills located in same district.

Good management is assured through connection with the Corporation as officers and stockholders of Mr. Manuel Rionda and his organization, who have a long record as successful sugar merchants and planters. The Board of Directors consists of experienced business men, many of whom have had long experience in the sugar business.

Market value of the Common Shares, representing the equity in the property, is over $28,000,000.

All legal details incident to incorporation have been under the supervision of Messrs. Sullivan & Cromwell, of New York City.

Application will be made to list these Shares on the New York and Havana Stock Exchanges.

We recommend the above described Preferred Stock of Cuba Cane Sugar Corporation for investment

Kauff and Giants Here — Braves Battle Old Foe

By HERMAN NICKERSON

HAVING split even with the Dodgers and that being the standing of the Braves in number of games won and lost, the fans are set for the opening of the present series with the New York club, in whose band is found the celebrated Benny Kauff. The Giants have not had what could be called a brilliant start in the present league race and they cannot be said to look any too strong, so there is hope that the Braves may get started.

They came North from a very warm climate and struck some cold weather in town, which was enough to send the boys to the hospital. Playing on hot sand and then switching to cold wet sod is a thing that will get any one, athlete or otherwise. Still there are no cases of illness and but one of injury, so the Braves have stood the test very well. Magee will not in all probability get into this series, and may not be able to play against his old teammates. The chances are he will be ready when the team leaves for their road trip, however.

Johnny Evers isn't feeling any too well, being subject to colds, and this is the finest kind of weather to contract such a thing. He has been out there fighting as hard as the rules of the game will permit, with one eye on the situation and a good grip upon himself, firm in the desire to stay in all the ball games scheduled for this season for the Braves.

INDIFFERENT BASEBALL.

The Braves have played an indifferent article of baseball and they do not look any too strong. This may be due to the temperature, but the Brooklyn club had the same weather conditions to battle with and, bad as they appeared, they got away with one game.

The added strength if any in the Braves, appears to be in the outfield with Magee, Connolly, Collins, Compton, Snodgrass and Wilhoit. This bunch to draw from should deliver the article of ball required. With the exception of Konetchy on first, the infield is the same as last year. Konetchy looks as if he would fill in at first very nicely although big Schmidt would look pretty good there on the first corner. Evers will get his stride and Maranville is as good as ever, while Smith is fully recovered from the effect of that broken leg. He does not appear to favor it in the least as he did some times during the past season.

Speaking of the attendance that has marked the games played so far at Braves Field it may be said that aside from the opening day, when a good-sized crowd attended, there have been light gatherings, due to the cold weather and not to anything the team may have done in the way of baseball. To sit out in football weather may be fashionable in the Fall, but the fans have not become educated to that kind of temperature for the national pastime.

MODEST BILL IN TOWN.

The ground today is likely to be very damp, making the game somewhat slower than it would be with good conditions, still anything like a ball game will be interesting after the three days' fasting from this form of amusement.

Another player more modest than Kauff comes with the Giants minus a press agent and all the blare of trumpets. Bill Rariden, who used to catch for the Boston Nationals, is the man referred to. Bill could always hit the ball when he was at Walpole street, but there were many things he had to acquire before he could be classed as a first class backstop. It is presumed he has all these things, for in New York, where everything is perfect, they call him as good as Roger Bresnahan. If Bill has grown that strong he is some catcher. He will be given a warm welcome by his old teammates.

Last but not least, let us not forget Johnny McGraw. His appearance on the coaching line is well worth the price of admission. He will be there to see that his team gets none the worst of it. Look out, Johnny, it is the era of parlor baseball. Mind your step and watch out for that language which might offend.

"BILL" KILLIFER IS SAVED TO PHILLIES

Philadelphia, April 25.—Manager Moran of the Phillies states that Bill Killifer, his crack catcher, and Grover Alexander's former battery mate, whose arm failed him in the fag end of the 1915 race, is rapidly getting into trim and will soon be back in the game.

"I look for Killifer to be in there catching in his old-time form inside of two weeks, or a month at the latest," says Moran. Bill Fish, the young receiver, has been turned over to New London, Ct.

SAM CRAWFORD NOT MAKING ROAD TOUR

St. Louis, April 25.—Sam Crawford was not in Hughie Jennings' party which arrived here this morning for four set-tos with the Browns. The veteran hitter is laid up with a heavy cold in Detroit and will be out at least another week, says Jennings. Ty Cobb is here with the Tigers, but he, too, is ailing and may not get into action against the Browns. He is bound to be indisposed, local bugs claim, the afternoons Jones works Weilman and Plank.

International Opens Season Tomorrow

New York, April 25.—The International League pennant fight will open in two cities tomorrow. The Montreals will pry off the lid in Baltimore where a great revival of the National pastime is expected this year. President Barrow considers this opening of so much importance that he is going to be on hand. Great preparations have been made for the opening in Richmond tomorrow, where the champion Buffalo team will be the attraction.

The Newark club, under its new ownership, will open the season on Thursday, when Manager Fred Tenney leads his forces against the Toronto club.

President Barrow is going to spread his expansive smile over this occasion, too. Rochester will be at Providence on Thursday.

The umpires will be at President Barrow's office today for instructions.

Assignments:
Carpenter and Chestnutt at Baltimore.
Cleary and Bransfield at Richmond.
Hart and Keenan at Providence.
Freeman and Handiboe at Newark.

CORNEN GOES IN AS EASTERN MAGNATE

The big thing done by the Eastern League magnates, at their meeting here yesterday, was to ratify the sale of the Bridgeport club to Harry I. Cornen. Dan O'Neil was in the chair in place of President Tim Murnane. The latter's friends will be glad to learn he is rapidly recuperating from his recent severe illness. The magnates, when adjourning, announced that they would reassemble at the Garde Hotel, in New Haven, May 2. The umps have been instructed to gather in Springfield Thursday to receive final instructions.

GRAYS GET YOUNG BRAVE.

Providence, April 25.—Draper of the Grays announces the purchase of Catcher Blackburn of the Braves and Infielder Brainard of the Giants. Both men are down to report to Manager Shean today. Pitcher Baumgartner, secured from the Phillies, joined the squad yesterday.

STRAND OFF TO TOLEDO.

Southpaw Paul Strand of the Braves left for Toledo, O., last night where he goes to report to Manager Bresnahan of the Mud-Hens. Stallings has a string on Strand, it is understood, and will yank him back if he ever gets going on high.

TRINITY STARTS TOUR.

CHAMPS PLAY IN N. Y.

Carrigans Arrive in Gotham for Series with Yankees—Bill Has Respect for Athletics.

NEW YORK, April 25.—The World's Champions, in tow of Manager Carrigan, arrived in town late last night and this afternoon will inaugurate their four-game series with the Yankees at the Polo Grounds.

It will appear strange not to see Tristram Speaker in the Boston line-up, but Carrigan's crew has already become accustomed to the defection of the star centre fielder, and the team continues winning in spite of the supposed big loss.

The red-hosed warriors once more are in the van of the American League race, and Carrigan promises that his charges will head the position permanently. To impress this fact on New York's baseball citizenry he plans to toss George Foster into the pitching pit this afternoon. The 1915 world's series hero was treated somewhat rudely on his last outing, against the Athletics Saturday, but as he endured less than three innings, will be available for box duty this afternoon.

TWO YANKEE STARS OUT.

Donovan is laboring under the handicap of being without the services of two of his regular outfielders, Lee Magee and Frank Gilhooley. Magee was out in uniform at Washington yesterday, but did not get into the game. Gilhooley is expected to be pressed into service today or tomorrow.

While Bill Carrigan was not altogether pleased with his first visit of the season to Philadelphia, the fact that his Red Sox broke even on the series with Connie Mack's infants was ointment on the wounds of the two successive defeats.

The World's Champions were surprised at the work of the Macklan machine in view of the reports that had gone over the wires concerning its general weakness.

"In 1914 George T. Stallings was billed as the Miracle Man, but if Connie Mack slips over any more acts like his work last Friday and Saturday you can say for me that most of 1916's magical stunts will be performed at Shibe Park," said Carrigan upon his arrival here.

MACK IS COMING BACK.

"Some fellows tear down a ball club without meaning to do it; sometimes some one else does it for you. But Mack deliberately took apart his machine. He also said at the time he would build the fastest team ever seen. The scoffers sneered and I didn't exactly blame them.

"What manager could toss away Eddie Plank, 'Chief' Bender, Jack Coombs, Eddie Collins, Frank Baker, Jack Barry, Eddie Murphy, Jack Lapp and several more, and ever hope to get back in the running in a dozen years? If there is one man who can do it, it is Mack.

"His scouting system is strung out all over the country. Where did he get Myers and Nabors? Who ever heard of them? How many more has he got under cover? There was Lawton Witt, who comes from Goddard Seminary at Barre, Vt. Right up my way, too, Mack got him and I never even heard of the seminary.

"Mack will come back. I am convinced he will. Not this year maybe, but in 1917, the year he himself picked as the one he would be in the fight. He may get there a little soon, or he may be delayed a little. But take it from me, he won't finish in last place this year."

SAY "DUTCH" WAS LUCKY.

Leonard's luck beat the Athletics yesterday. "Dutch" was hit hard and often, but he was given superb support by the Red Sox infield and the Champions won, 4-0.

Pick, the man selected to fill Frank Baker's shoes, is not a home-run king yet, but he whaled three singles, which is right pert for a youngster up against a world's champion flinger.

The Mackmen compiled seven hits off Leonard, but no two came in sequence. Manager Carrigan partook of his first full game of the season yesterday, and turned in a commendable performance. He made two of his team's eight hits, dividing the batting honors with Duffy Lewis.

Carrigan's work behind the bat was the outstanding feature of the Red Sox's defensive play. He pulled in two difficult fouls and cut down three prospective base stealers. He may appear in the same role against the Yankees this afternoon.

Harvard will meet Bates College this afternoon on Soldiers Field and make an effort to wipe out last year's defeat at the hands of the Maine boys. Garritt will probably be Coach Mitchell's selection to pitch.

Beal will be started at third base, where he played so creditably in the Johns Hopkins game. Purvere will take the slab against the Crimson, with the veteran, Lord, catching. The game is set for 4 o'clock.

28 Get in First Day's Harvard Grid. Work

Twenty-eight men reported for the opening day of Spring practice at Harvard. Because of the inclement weather, the candidates were allowed to do pretty much as they pleased. About the only activity indulged in was punting.

Coach Leo H. Leary was on han, but after a short talk to the candidates in the locker building, and a conference with Capt. Dadmun, took a taxi back to his Boston law offices. Captain Dadmun is suffering from a slight cold and did not dress for practice.

None of the regular team put in an appearance, most of the men being at work as candidates for the crew, baseball or track teams.

FOOD FOR SPORT FANS

By GEORGE E. PHAIR

THE VETERAN.

"Say! Nix on war!" the baseball magnate said.
"Let only peace and quietude abide!"
And as he spoke he sadly shook his head
And gazed upon his bankroll, tearful eyed.
"I do not care what nations are concerned;
They may be English, Germans, French or Jews;
But this one little lesson I have learned:
Although you win a war you always lose."

Opening day in a baseball park is an entertaining diversion, if you like vaudeville. As we understand it, the main idea is to hide the fact that there is a baseball game going on.

Arizona, we read, has the smallest golf links in the world. The climate being dry, the golfers demand the shortest distance between the first and nineteenth holes.

We have received various letters advocating Spring shooting of migratory birds. Aside from the fact that he would beat up a cripple and take candy from an infant, a Spring duck hunter is a regular sportsman.

Johnny Coulon thinks he can come back. So does Battling Nelson and so does Ad Wolgast. Under the constitution and by-laws of the U. S. of A. a citizen is allowed to think whatever he pleases.

Chick Evans is collecting a lot of dope on ball players who play golf. Most of the ball players who play golf are afflicted with solid ivory. Not that we are casting any aspersions on the grand old game of golf, but Heine Zim is the best golf player in baseball.

Many Fat Jobs Are Open for College Athletes

By TOM THORP.

THE most valuable asset the present day school of learning can boast is the possession of a capable athletic coach. Unless an institution can rave winning teams the youths of the present generation refuse to consider it as a proper place to obtain the necessary goods to g othrough life without the aid of father's cash.

This state of affairs has developed to such an acute stage that today colleges are spending great sums for the services of some well known instructors. Athletic coaches are receiving more today than many of the professors who occupy prominent places in the college administration.

The younger generation who are today accomplishing things at college have caught up this spirit, and many who devoted their time and energy to solving the difficult problems of calculus and mechanics are turning their attention to baseball, football and the other sports. They figure that a much better living can be had by acting as an athletic instructor than by entering the employ of some corporation.

The salaries paid some of the athletic stars who graduate from college would turn the heads of some bank presidents. Five thousand dollars for a few months' work is considered only a nominal sum for the services of one of our present-day college champion footballers. Some of these former athletes are drawing salaries well over this figure. In fact, there are at least twenty athletic directors who receive salaries close to those paid the chief officers of many of our most prominent corporations.

At present there are many positions open to high calibre athletes. Fordham University has lost the services of Harry Vaughan, former football coach, the University of Pennsylvania is looking about for a suitable trainer, Franklin and Marshall is minus an athletic director caused by Jack Reed's signing to look after the athletic future of Rensselaer Poly; Colby College has lost Harry Fuller, the former Yale football star; St. Louis University is without an athletic mentor, while George Washington University is negotiating for the services of a former Colgate star.

* * *

With all these good jobs open it is littlewonder that the college student is bending his energies to the professional field.

* * *

Washington University and Leland Stanford are sure to send representatives to the Poughkeepsie Regatta in June. The Western oarsmn have finished their season out on the coast, but are continuing training for their contemplated meeting with their Eastern brothers.

The Pacific coast oarsmen are the biggest and strongest athletes ever sent East. The Washington State representatives are said to be the most polished set of sweep wielders ever develoned in that section of the country. Their sweeping triumph over Stanford's crewmen in the Pacific coast championships two weeks ago shows that they are in much better condition than any of their Eastern rivals at the present time. If they can keep their good form until June 17 Charlie Courtney, Jim Rice, Jim Ten Eyck and Joe Wright had better look to their laurels.

In their two races in Eastern waters the Pacific coasters have made more than a good showing. Although rather crude in watermanship, they made up for this by the tremendous power they put into their stroke. Stanford's sensational race of last season left no doubt in the unprejudiced mind of athletic followers that if the course had been a trifle longer the Ithaca crew would have been forced to give way to the fighting spirit of Stanford.

That challenging sprint made by the Stanford eight in the last mile of the Poughkeepsie course last June has endeared them in the hearts of the rowing public to such an extent that it would not be surprising to have them go to the starting line on June 17 a favorite over their Eastern rivals.

Scottish Eleven Out to Break Goal Record

London, April 25.—For the last of the Easter holidays several important soccer games were set for decision in each of the British leagues. The London games were all patronized by large holiday crowds, the star attraction being played between Arsenal and Chelsea on the grounds of the former.

The pensioners won, 3-1, and got to the top of the table for the first time in the new competition. Queen's Park Rangers scored a surprising victory over Millwall, 2-0.

Three Scottish League games were decided. WELTERS' MIX AT ARENA

Joe Eagan and Mike O'Dowd, Western Wizard, Top Triple—A Bill—'Ringer' on with Donovan.

GREATER BOSTON boxing fans will know pretty much all there is to know about Joe Eagan, the rising young Dorchester glovesman, along about 10.45 p. m. He has an engagement to keep with Mike O'Dowd, the noted St. Paul welterweight, at the Arena tonight.

It's to a decision and a decision for Eagan will mean that another ring title will be in a fair way to land in Boston, which in bygone days, when the only John L. Sullivan, George Dixon, "Honey" Mellody and Jimmy Walsh were in their prime and stepping their fastest, was nationally known as the home of Queensberry topliners.

If Greater Boston is to come back with a ring premier it looks as if the new king will take hold in the welterweight class. That's the division Mike Glover, New England's current foremost miller, operates in. Joe Eagan, who is to be seen in action tonight, also steps in that class.

[illegible]

SAID TO BE O. K.

In O'Dowd, Eagan meets the Middle West's best bet among the welterweights. Mike is as rugged as they come, according to all reports, a fairly speedy boxer with [illegible]. He cleaned up Freddie Gilmore, [illegible] Kramer and the rest of the [illegible] of the 145-150 pounders out his way, and also numbers Bartfield among his victims.

O'Dowd came East a few weeks ago bent upon gaining additional fame. Mike has been nicely groomed for tonight's melee at Dat Hawkins' roadhouse, on the outskirts of Gay Gotham, and is reported to be cherry ripe. His crowd aims putting him over tonight and then going after Jack Britton, Ted Lewis' master in a fight for the title.

Likewise is that the next [illegible] Mack aims to land for Eagan [illegible] claim that Joe is in the [illegible] trim of his career and is sure to deliver big. Eagan has been taking it easy at Stamford, Ct., ever since his battle with Glover. He reached Boston last night and appears to be in ideal condition.

The Triple A card is a corker [illegible] through. "Chick" West, that clever light welter, from Holyoke, hooks up with Dave Powers, the Malden [illegible], in the semi-final. West looms up as a sure winner.

WHO'S JOHNNY MARNS?

Johnny Donovan, the crack young South Boston featherweight, as good a ring prospect as there is in this district, meets an unknown in Johnny Marns, of Montreal, in the second six-rounder. Marns is reported to be a "ringer" and here to win a big bet for a certain bunch of sports. Thus far Donovan has not lost a decision since turning professional. He's a live wire, and can be relied upon pleasing. As for Marns, and just what he is able to do, remains to be seen. However, if he's half as ferocious as claimed by some folks, it will be curtains with Donovan, sure.

One of these is famous under the name of the "Enchanted Coast," seen on the shore of Greenland by Captain William Scoresby. Here is his description of the apparition:

"ENCHANTED COAST"

"The general telescopic appearance of the coast was that of an extensive ancient city, abounding with the ruins of castles, obelisks, churches and monuments, with other large and conspicuous buildings. Some of the hills seemed to be surmounted by turrets, battlements, spires and pinnacles, while others, subjected to one or two reflections, exhibited large masses of rock apparently suspended in the air at a considerable elevation above the termination of the mountains to which they referred.

"The whole exhibition was a gigantic phantasmagoria. Scarcely was any particular portion sketched before it changed its appearance and assumed the form of an object totally different. It was perhaps alternately a castle, a cathedral or an obelisk, then expanding horizontally and coalescing with the adjoining hills, united the intermediate valleys, though some [illegible] in width, by a bridge of [illegible] arch of the most magnificent [illegible] and extent.

"Notwithstanding these repeated changes the various figures had all the distinctness of reality, and not only the different strata, but also the veins of the rocks, with the wreaths of snow occupying the ravines and fissures, formed sharp and distinct lines and exhibited every appearance of the most perfect solidity."

Notice how different Lux looks from any other soap product you have ever seen, how pure, how transparent each flake is!

Lux is the modern form of soap for all fine laundering—the thin, transparent flakes of pure soap make such a thick soapy lather that without rubbing, Lux easily dissolves the dirt!

Lux positively won't shrink woolens or flannels. It leaves them beautifully soft and fluffy.

THIS WONDERFUL NEW PRODUCT

Won't shrink woolens!
Won't turn silks yellow!
Won't injure even chiffons!

Pure soap in flakes—nothing else like it has ever been made. Not a soap powder, not a chipped soap, not a cake of soap, but fine, transparent flakes of pure soap, ready for use.

These flakes melt the moment they are thrown into hot water. They dissolve so completely that not the slightest trace of soap is left in the garment to yellow it.

The hardest test of a soap

The hardest test of any soap product is in washing woolens and flannels, and in the choice of your soap product, lies the secret of complete success in their laundering.

The formula for Lux produces a soap product which will not shrink woolens, and which leaves them soft and fluffy, just as they were when new. You may find it difficult to believe that Lux really will not shrink woolens or flannels, but order one package and try it. Think what it means to you to have at last found something which will wash any woolen!

How you can keep your silk blouse as white as when new

It is the combined action of alkali and hot water on silk which makes it acquire a yellow color which cannot be washed out.

With Lux and lukewarm water, you can wash silk fabrics dozens of times and they will not turn yellow. Lux contains no free alkali, and lathers wonderfully, even in lukewarm water! Lux won't harm anything that pure water alone will not injure.

For fine laundering, soap should never be rubbed directly on the article

For fine laundering, never rub soap directly on a fine article. This coarsens and tends to discolor the fabric. Lux cleanses wonderfully without rubbing. The thin, transparent flakes dissolve instantly, and contain more real cleansing value than you would believe possible.

Order a package now, and test it! That is the way to settle for all time the product you will use for all your fine laundering. Lever Bros., Cambridge, Mass.

SENATE DELAYS TO DODGE VOTE ON BRANDEIS

Washington, D. C., April 25.—The full Committee on the Judiciary of the United States Senate has again postponed the consideration of the confirmation of the appointment of Louis D. Brandeis to the Supreme Court. The opponents of Mr. Brandeis are conducting, in behalf of the corporations and special interests which they present, a well-organized filibuster. They realize that in a long contest the selfish interests of a well-organized few can tire out those who are interested only in behalf of the general public. Selfishness is always more vigilant and persistent than disinterestedness.

The hope of the Senators who, under the guise of partisanship, are opposing Mr. Brandeis' confirmation, is that interest in the affair will die down, and here and there a Senator, whose respect for the opinions of his constituents incline him to favor Mr. Brandeis, may be picked off.

OPPOSITION GIVEN FULLEST SCOPE

In the beginning those who approved the Brandeis appointment and who want to see an independent, courageous and forward-looking man on the Supreme Court, were disposed to give the opposition all the rope they wanted and to permit them to file all the charges they could rake up, and to give them all the time they could possibly have in which to air them and all other grounds of opposition which they might pretend to be important. The reason for giving so much latitude to the opponents of Mr. Brandeis was, first, a real desire to know everything that there might be said against Mr. Brandeis; and, next, a desire not to permit the opposition to be able to say that they could have shown Mr. Brandeis' unfitness if they had been given a fair opportunity.

This policy naturally led to prolonged public hearings and to great delay in the consideration of the question. But it was not supposed that after the hearings were closed and after the opponents had their say and had exhausted their spleen, that there would be sought still further excuses for delay in taking up the question.

But these hearings have been closed now for several weeks, and the Special Committee, which heard the evidence, has reported in favor of Mr. Brandeis; and yet the full committee is still unwilling to come to a vote. In the meantime the country is being deprived of the services of Mr. Brandeis on the Supreme Court.

SENATE MAJORITY IS FAVORABLE

It is accepted that a majority of the full membership of the Senate are favorable to Mr. Brandeis today. Since the opposition can thus lose nothing by delay, they are making every effort to prevent a vote. Of course the Senate could order the committee to report, but that would be a very drastic step which the Senate, in its crusted conservatism, rarely likes to take.

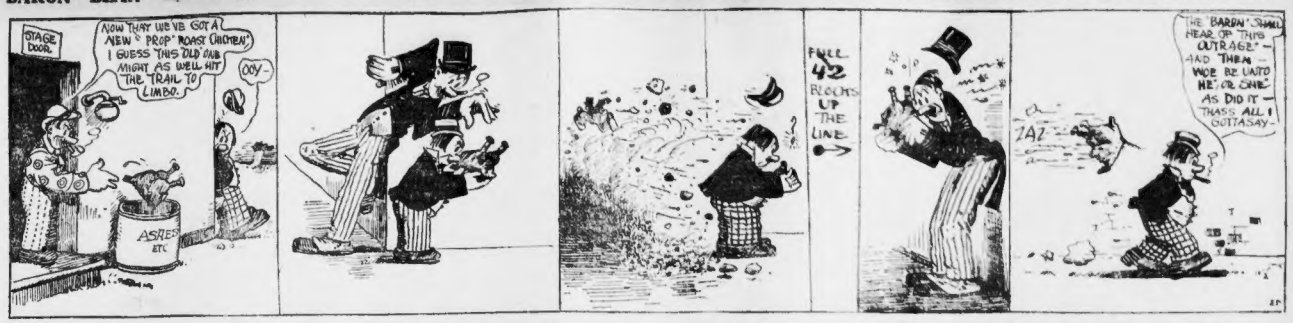

It is a curious fact that not one of the Senators who announced his opposition to Mr. Brandeis places it on the ground that Mr. Brandeis' unfitness or lack of professional ethics were proven. Their opposition is wholly to his radical point of view. Senator Works stated as the ground of his opposition to him that he was a good crusader on behalf of the interest of the average man, but for that reason was not of judicial character. The California Senator admitted that though the great business interests were opposed to Mr. Brandeis, the poor and the great mass of the people who knew him liked him and believed in him.

HIDE UNDER PERSONAL GRIEVANCE

This is not denied by the Senators who oppose him, except Senator Cummins of Iowa, and a few who hide under the wing of Clifford Thorne's personal grievance. The rest of the Senators hide behind the skirts of the Republican party, but in the cloak room they frankly say that their opposition is to Mr. Brandeis' point of view. They do not want a man on the Supreme Court with as much ability, as much force of character, and so progressive a point of view. They want the Supreme Court to be the asylum of the trusts, strong to protect them when they are being attacked, and careful not to strike them in a vital place when their aggressions and lawlessness become so offensive that some slap on the wrist is necessary.

The people of the country can thus see how carefully the special interests are guarding the Supreme Court from any invasion of progressive ability. If it is so difficult on the rare occasions when a progressive man is appointed to the Supreme Court to get him confirmed by the Senate, which is the most radical in years, the country can easily see why the Oil Trust and the Tobacco Trust, and other trusts, against whom the Supreme Court has fulminated like heat lightning, with monopoly prices going up faster from the time that the Supreme Court roared at them, then before the Supreme Court undertook to correct them.

BEST BABY EDITOR KEPT BUSY AS CUP CONTEST NEARS CLOSE

The remaining days of the Best Baby Contest promise to be busy ones for the Best Baby Editor with new entries fast pouring in from all sides.

Today a large pile of mail represents babies from many Greater Boston towns. There are photographs, descriptive letters and blanks with simply measurements and names of parents. All are examined and filed away.

An element in a perfect baby, which a majority of former contests have taken little note of, is the baby's character. If the perfect baby physically, should happen to be peevish, cross and ill-tempered, he would stand a poor chance of getting a first prize.

Character will have influence with the judges. This means that the baby's daily habits and its general disposition will influence the judges in their final decision.

Dr. Edith Hale Swift, one of the judges, has written for the AMERICAN a short article on baby discipline which should be of interest to parents who are entering their babies in the contest.

By DR. EDITH HALE SWIFT.

To comfort a crying baby seems a mother's instinct. A father's impulse seems to be to say "Stop that crying or I'll spank you." But the most stupid father knows that his power can't begin till the child can understand what "naughty" means, so the mother is left to her instinct, and too often she paves the way for paternal punishment.

For many months a cry is the baby's only signal. It cries from hunger, from pain, from bodily discomfort, from sleepiness. The wiser the mother is, the fewer signals will be necessary.

The clock helps in anticipating baby's cry from hunger and sleepiness, and due attention to pins and temperature will keep him almost mute. You have seen those attentive people who always do something for you before you know you want it. If you are that kind of a parent you will not have a crying, fretting baby.

HOW HABITS ARE FORMED.

Habits are formed by doing a thing the same way a great many times. It is quite important, therefore, that the child has no constant connection between crying (which may be quite accidental) and feeding time, for instance. If the last few minutes of the interval are apt to be fretty ones every attempt should be made to keep the baby interested and happy until the appointed time arrives.

And just as important as the avoidance of bad habits is the formation of good ones. A bath, a feeding, a sleep, should become a routine which brooks of no exception, or again, a feeding, a nightdress, a bed, a darkened room, should result in but one thing—sleep.

But when should the father's part—the spanking—enter baby's life?

The sole purpose of punishing is the close association of an unpleasant sensation, if need be pain, as the result of an undesirable act. If, while sucking his thumb, for instance, the baby receive repeatedly a brisk snap of the finger, the brain connection becomes "suck-hurt."

"If I suck," unconsciously reasons baby, "I'll be hurt." The pleasant sensation of the sucking originally felt is now lost in the deeper experience of pain. This is the only kind of corporal punishment that is justifiable and does not permit spanking, because a child does not conform to some arbitrary command.

A WORD ABOUT SPANKING.

A spanking merely makes him associate you with an unpleasant sensation. He has lost the connection with the cause. He is pained and nervously upset. That is all.

We have very definite parts, then, to play in the formation of the baby's character. His life should be as free from friction as we can make it. His needs and his wants should be anticipated so that crying shall be but a rare exercise more often associated with isolation than with tending.

On the other hand, a laugh, a gurgle, should meet with appreciation and attention which develops friendliness.

Let the fussiness, or the nervousness, be associated with the few minutes' fondling which every baby should have daily.

When a lesson is to be taught seek to demonstrate with lightning-like rapidity the natural consequence of the act, not a vengeance or loss of temper, on your part. Your calm and firmness will give him better control. What you do often, rather than what is done, will develop right habits and a good disposition.

The American People Themselves Should Decide the Issue of War or Peace

SENATORS and Representatives, we again address you directly, in this most serious hour, because we feel it to be our duty to voice, for your encouragement and, perhaps, for your better information, the undoubted will and sentiment of the majority of the American people.

The great series of public journals of which this newspaper is a spokesman, extend their network of organization all over the United States. They are printed simultaneously on the Atlantic coast, the Pacific coast, in the States of the South, and in that great and populous region of which Chicago is the metropolis.

These journals are read by and reflect the opinions of more than SIX MILLIONS OF ADULT AMERICAN CITIZENS.

Senators and Representatives, there is no news-collecting and news-disseminating organization in this country which can even distantly approach the facilities of the Hearst publications for ascertaining the true state of public opinion, and as a result of those facilities and their impartial and most energetic use at this time, we affirm to you, upon knowledge and with a full sense of our high obligation to the nation to be scrupulously truthful, that an enormous majority of the whole American people are decidedly opposed to this country going to war over the conduct by Germany of her submarine warfare upon the commerce of her enemies.

An enormous majority of the American people sincerely believe that those American citizens who voyage to Europe in such times as these should voyage on American ships, and that they show neither patriotism nor any regard for their country's peace and welfare, nor even ordinary good sense, in travelling upon belligerent ships; and that their countrymen are not called upon, either in prudence or in honor, to waste their wealth and their lives to avenge the consequences of such foolhardiness and such disregard for the nation's peace and prosperity.

Senators and Representatives, YOU ARE fresh from the people. YOU know your constituents, thousands of them, by name. YOU know what they are thinking and what they are saying by their firesides. And we know right well that a great majority of you are as certain as we, that the American people are strongly opposed to this war propaganda, fostered and spread by powerful financial and social interests and influences in New York, in Boston, in Providence and other cities of note by every means that unlimited money can command.

Now, Senators and Representatives, the President and his Secretary of State do not take this view, and it is quite likely that a rupture of diplomatic relations with Germany may occur. It will occur if Mr. Lansing can bring it about, for you know very well that such is his desire.

In that case it cannot be a long time until you will be called upon to say whether you will declare war upon the same grounds upon which diplomatic relations were broken off, and it is the part both of patriotism and of good sense to give your minds to the consideration of what action you will take in that very probable contingency.

For that reason, Senators and Representatives, we invite your earnest consideration of the suggestion we have to make, which is that you REFER THE DECISION OF THIS MOMENTOUS AND TREMENDOUS QUESTION TO A VOTE OF THE PEOPLE OF THE UNITED STATES.

We are well aware that this would be an unprecedented action, but we are also well aware that IT IS AN UNPRECEDENTED SITUATION.

In every other war we have waged with foreign powers, the approach to that war has found the vast majority of the nation in hearty accord as to the justice and imperativeness of war.

Now for the first time in our history we are being hurried toward a war in regard to the justice and imperativeness of which the people are not only not unanimous, but are wholly divided, with every evidence that a very large and preponderant majority are strongly of the conviction that war is neither necessary nor desirable.

Senators and Representatives, if the President and his advisers do sever diplomatic relations, they will then have exhausted the constitutional powers of the executive, and you will have to take up the burden of your constitutional duty.

We do, indeed, think that you should have long before this been called into consultation and co-operation with the executive, but the insidious extension of the presidential power and the encroachments upon the dignity and authority of Congress, which your predecessors have unwisely and tamely submitted to in silence, have been employed to dwarf your co-ordinate powers and authority, as originally established by the Constitution, quite as freely by this administration as by any of its predecessors. Accordingly, you have had no more voice in the conduct of your peoples' foreign relations than have an equal number of schoolboys, assembled, let us say, at Princeton.

But, in the last great and decisive act of declaring war, the most encroaching administration would not dare to interfere with your final power.

You, and you alone, must register the will of the nation, whether it shall then be peace or war.

Now, since in that supreme hour, so big with destiny, it is the will of the people and nothing but the will of the people, which should be uttered in your final decision, we hold that the true will of the people should be ascertained beyond any doubt at all by the regular, customary process of ascertaining that will at the ballot box.

The theory of the Constitution, and the actual result in ordinary times, is that you, coming fresh from election by the people, have the mandate of the majority, for you vote upon the questions and issues of the time. In other words, you have your instructions pronounced and ratified by the majority at the polls. The referendum has been held and the decision of the majority ascertained.

But not one of you was elected upon this grave issue, which has suddenly arisen since the people last went to the polls. Nobody certainly knows the will of the majority, because the people have had no means to speak in a definite way, by actual vote and count.

So that, do what you will, you must be in some shadow of doubt as to the popular will, if called upon to decide the fateful question of war or peace without a referendum to the nation and a definite expression of the nation's will.

Senators and Representatives, we common folks must do the fighting. You can depend upon it that the excited gentry who are screaming for war down Wall Street way, and in New York and Boston and Providence journals, will be conspicuous in the trenches by their practically unanimous absence.

It is plain, common folks whose savings will be wasted and whose blood will run in rivers, if we go to war. And in this free country of ours it is the RIGHT of the common people to say whether they want war.

If they say yes, well and good. We will all then fight with good courage. If they say no, no let it be. For with what heart will any people fight against their will and their convictions?

There will be plenty of time for a referendum. If we are to go to war, there is no emergency calling for feverish haste.

The countries upon which we shall declare war, if we do declare war, are walled about with millions of armed enemies and blockaded by sea as well as by land. They cannot at present strike back, so we can take all the time we want to add our reinforcements to the superior numbers they have been so many months beating back.

A little delay would also give the 3,000,000 British troops the chance they have so long—and no doubt impatiently—waited for, to lend the hard-pressed French a hand in the terrible battles they have been so gallantly fighting for two dreadful months.

Senators and Representatives, you will observe that we make no argument either for or against the conduct of this hideous war by Germany or England.

Our peaceful people have had bitter wrongs from Germany and bitter wrongs from England, and we have not failed to feel a deep resentment against both the wrongs inflicted by Germany and the wrongs inflicted by England. But these matters have nothing to do with the discussion of the suggestion which we have submitted to your patriotic consideration.

The question we put to you is whether or not you should, in your own judgment, ascertain the will of your people before you are called upon to pronounce that will.

Senators and Representatives, we can conceive of no act more emphatically American, more becoming to the representatives of a free people, more strikingly illustrative of the vitality and power of our liberties and our political institutions, than would be this referendum of the issue of war or peace to the suffrage of the whole body of American citizens.

It would be an exhibit of the power and the value and the splendid practical usefulness of our free institutions and democratic liberties that would stand for many generations as the most helpful inspiration to other nations which any people have ever given to instruct, to amaze and to delight mankind.

HAS IT EVER HAPPENED TO YOU?

Let the Licensing Board Keep the City Clean

THOSE most eager to see the Licensing Board limited in its power and in its discretion to deal with licensees for the sale of intoxicating liquors are those who keep brothels or do not want to run their business according to the decent standards established by the Board.

The City of Boston has been comparatively free from gambling, hold-up and murder dens infested by gunmen and gangsters such as disgrace and terrorize the city of New York and other great centres of population. Undoubtedly the Licensing Board must share with the Police Department the credit for Boston's comparatively clean condition in this respect. Crime, of course, gathers around places where liquor is sold as moths gather around the flame. When the Board keeps these places clean, it helps a great deal to suppress these dens of crime.

The bill which has passed the Senate so strangely proposes to give a man who has a license worth five thousand dollars or more a right of appeal to a Judge of the Superior Court in case his license is taken away. This recognizes a property in the liquor license which the law does not recognize and ought not to recognize. Again, it grants an appeal to a Judge of the Superior Court who knows nothing at all about the situation with which he is called upon to deal, is in no way qualified to deal with it either by special experience or by special responsibility. As men they are no abler than the membership of the Board. They have not the atmosphere which guides one's instincts in these matters. They have not the knowledge of the little and numberless facts which go to make up sound judgment concerning these questions and are without the background, the experience or special knowledge to understand the policies of the Board or to supervise its administration.

The whole scheme to give an appeal to a Judge of the Superior Court is absurd and will also prove extremely irksome and distasteful to the Judges themselves, who will appreciate their lack of qualification. These gentlemen are expert lawyers and in no way fitted to supervise the work of a different kind of experts like the members of the Licensing Board.

The Board ought not to allow itself to be frightened by this flank attack from the course it has taken, beginning with the refusal to issue a new license for Maxim's for obvious reasons. There are other places which need attention, and undoubtedly these are the places which want to emasculate the powers of the Board.

Many Human Ills Due Ella Wheeler Wilcox Says To Intemperate Eating

Modern Man Could Easily Cut Amount of Daily Food in Half Without Suffering—Simple, Nutritious Diet Would Save Much Sickness

By Ella Wheeler Wilcox

Copyright, 1916, Star Co.

WHAT is the matter with us, that we begin to decay as soon as we stop growing? The truth may not be denied: Food destroys us!

The alimentary canal is the most outraged of all human highways. There are over 5,000 men and women living in the United States today who are more than 100 years old. Statistics, carefully gathered from the life course of these people, will reveal that they did not greatly abuse the alimentary canal.

Sydney Smith wrote: "The longer I live, the more I am convinced that half the unhappiness of mankind arises from little stoppages—from a duct choked up, from food pressing in the wrong place, from a vexed duodenum or an agitated pylorus. Old friendships are destroyed by toasted cheese, and hard salted meat has led to suicide. Unpleasant feelings of the body produce corresponding sensations of the mind and a great scene of wretchedness is often sketched out by a morsel of indigestible and misguided food."

Not one in a thousand possesses a body that is faithfully recording and transmitting the mental impulses. The brain and the nervous system constitute the keyboard upon which the real man plays. He may have the genius of a Newton, the courage of a Bruno, but if his instrument be out of tune, if it is deadened by the presence of rust, corrosion and foreign substances, it cannot respond to the vibrations of the great, over-brooding consciousness.

On account of the wonderful power of adaptation that appears to exist in the human body, a higher degree of efficiency is sometimes gained from the abused machine than would seem possible. We who read this will probably average 60 per cent. of physical efficiency. Our instruments are 40 per cent. out of tune. If for a moment we glimpsed what our full measure of perfection implied we would realize how sodden and feeble we are even in our most vital moments.—Exchange.

THIS is the time of year when our friends entertain us with their ailments. We have all listened, during the past few months, to tales of the physical aches and pains until the subject is worn threadbare. And yet the early Spring will bring a new recital of the same worn-out narrative.

Sickness is the result of wrong thinking regarding our physical needs and necessities and consequent wrong doing. Not one civilized human being in one hundred eats and drinks according to the needs of nature. Uncivilized beings and animals obey God's laws much more nearly than do the "civilized" classes.

It is seldom that any animal save pampered house pets, whose habits have been corrupted by close association of human beings, overeats or drinks.

Neither do they partake of unwholesome food, which is destructive to the digestive organs. That is left for man, made in God's image, to do.

If you are not feeling well, if you are lacking in physical power, in mental alertness, in ambition and vitality, reduce the amount of food you consume one-half. Increase the amount of water you drink one-half.

Drop all things made of refined, white flour from your diet; the coarse flour and the bran only are nutritious. Give up your highly spiced condiments, give up greasy foods, give up your conglomeration of many kinds of viands at one meal and take your simple, nutritious and easily digested diet twice in twenty-four hours.

If hunger assails you at other times, take the juice of fruit, a glass of water or a glass of milk. Exercise all your lung cells by deep breathing. Take at least 100 deep, all pervading breaths a day. Resolve to talk to no one about your aches and pains.

If you are going to "enjoy ill health," enjoy it by yourself alone. Remember, it is a reflection upon your own good sense, your own good behavior and your power of self-control, if you are not well. You will probably declare your illness due to overwork; on the contrary it is due to over-eating and lack of proper exercise of the muscles and of the lungs. Take yourself in hand and be well, and if your are not well, do not talk about it.

Talk health. The dreary, never-ending tale
Of mortal maladies is worn and stale;
You cannot charm or interest or please
By harping on that minor chord, disease.
Say you are well, or all is well with you,
And God shall hear your words and make them true.

More Truth Than Poetry

The New Patriotism

TIME was we used to battle for our altars and our fires,
And, like old Mark Bozzaris, for the green graves of our sires,
But Mr. Wilson doesn't think we ought to point a Krag
Unless we war for all mankind, as well as for our flag.
There's lots of troubles in the world, and, till we set them right,
He will not give us his consent to mix up in a fight.

While a Fiji wields a squee-gee,
Or, in some fair tropic scene,
A Somoli shrieks, "By Golly,
I will lift my brother's bean!"
While they pillage every village
Where the wild Bornean roams,
We must never dream of battling
For our hearths and homes!

WHEN we get miffed at Mexico, and have no doubt about
Our duty to invade the place and clean the bandits out,
He begs us, in a ringing speech, to hearken to his call
To fight for all humanity or not to fight at all.
And as this row is just our own and personal affair,
He views our stern belligerence with manifest despair.

While a bolo swings in Jolo
Or a dagger gleams in Swat,
While an arrow cleaves the marrow
Of a hapless Hottentot,
While a Tartar holds a charter
To go out and slash and slay
We must never think of fighting
For the U. S. A.!
